RELIGIOUS BELIEF MAN'S OWN AFFAIR

Roosevelt Answers Attacks on Taft, Saying Creeds Should Have No Place in Politics.

AGE OF BIGOTRY PASSED.

Honesty, Worth, and Upright Living Qualifications Necessary for a Public Official.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Attacks upon President Elect Taft because of his religious views were vigorously answered by President Roosevelt in a letter made public today.

The president holds that a man's creed is purely his own affair and that it interferes in no wise with the faithful discharge of his duty. To allow the subject of religion to enter the politics of this country, Mr. Roosevelt said, would be to hark back to bigotry. If a man wishes to keep silence in regard to his faith, that is his privilege, and no one should vote against him for it. Honesty and upright living are the qualifications necessary for a public official.

The United States citizenship and the civilization of this day call for the broadest liberality, declares the chief executive. Emphasizing his argument, he points to the fact that Catholic and Protestant, Christian and Jew, sit side by side at his cabinet table, all of one mind in the consideration of the material affairs of 80,000,000 people of many Text of Roosevelt's Letter.

The letter, which is addressed to J. C. Martin, of Dayton, O., is as follows:

"My dear sir: I have received your letter running in part as follows:

"'While it is claimed almost universally that religion should not enter into politics, yet there is no denying it does, and the mass of the voters that are not Catholics will not support a man for any office, especially for president of the United States, who is a Roman Catholic.

"'Since Taft has been nominated for president by the republican party, it is being circulated and is constantly urged as a reason for not voting for Taft, that he is an infidel [Unitarian], and his wife and brother Roman Catholics. If his feelings are in sympathy with the Roman Catholic church on account of his wife and brother being Catholics, that would be objectionable to a sufficient number of voters to defeat him. On the other hand, if he is an infidel, that would be sure to mean defeat. I am writing this letter for the sole purpose of giving Mr. Taft an opportunity to let the world know what his religious belief is.'

Shouldn't Be Used in Politics.

"I received many such letters as yours during the campaign, expressing dissatisfaction with Mr. Taft on religious grounds; some of them on the ground that he was a Unitarian and others on the ground that he was suspected to be in sympathy with Catholics. I did not answer any of these letters during the campaign, because I regarded it as an outrage even to agitate such a question as a man's religious convictions with the purpose of influencing a political election.

"But now that the campaign is over, when there is opportunity for men calmly to consider whither such propositions as those you make in your letter would lead, I wish to invite them to consider them, and I have selected your letter to answer because you advance both the objections commonly urged against Mr. Taft—namely: that he is a Unitarian and also that he is suspected of sympathy with the Catholics.

"You ask that Mr. Taft shall 'let the world know what his religious belief is.' This is purely his own private concern, and it is a matter between him and his Maker, a matter for his own conscience; and to require it to be made public under penalty of political discrimination is to negative the first principles of our government, which guarantee complete religious liberty and the right to each man to act in religious affairs as his own conscience dictates.

"Mr. Taft never asked my advice in the matter, but if he had asked it I should have emphatically advised him against thus stating publicly his religious belief. The demand for a statement of a candidate's religious belief can have no meaning except that there may be discrimination for or against him because of that belief.

Halt to True Liberty.

"Discrimination against the holder of one faith means retaliatory discrimination against men of other faiths. The inevitable result of entering upon such a practice would be an abandonment of our real freedom of conscience and a reversion to the dreadful conditions of religious dissension which in so many lands have proved fatal to true liberty, to true religion, and to all advance in civilization.

"To discriminate against a thoroughly upright citizen because he belongs to some particular church or because, like Abraham Lincoln, he has not avowed his allegiance to any church, is an outrage against that liberty of conscience which is one of the foundations of American life. You are entitled to know whether a man seeking your suffrages is a man of clean and upright life, honorable in all his dealings with his fellows, and fit by qualification and purpose to do well in the great office for which he is a candidate, but you are not entitled to know matters which lie purely between himself and his Maker.

"If it is proper or legitimate to oppose a man for being a Unitarian, as was John Quincy Adams, for instance; as is the Rev. Edward Everett Hale, at the present moment chaplain of the senate and an American of whose life all good Americans are proud—then it would be equally proper to support or oppose a man because of his views on justification by faith or the method of administering the sacrament or the gospel of salvation by works. If you once enter on such a career there is absolutely no limit at which you can legitimately stop.

Slander of Fellow Citizens.

"So much for your objections to Mr. Taft because he is a Unitarian. Now for your objections to him because you think his wife and brother to be Roman Catholics. As it happens, they are not; but if they were, or if he were a Roman Catholic himself, it ought not to affect in the slightest degree any man's supporting him for the position of president.

"You say that 'the mass of the voters that are not Catholics will not support a man for any office, especially for president of the DEMAND FAIR PLAY TO UPLIFT ALIEN.

Chicagoans in League for Protection of Immigrants Scourge Agencies for Cheating.

WORKERS HELPLESS PREY

Tales of Woe Related and Legislative Check on Reckless Employment Bureaus Urged.

The immigrant laborer, for years the easy prey of unscrupulous employment agencies, has found a sturdy champion at last. His undeserved woes, ranging from the threadbare story of deception through oily agents to tales of sufferings, wounds, and maiming, all traceable directly to present agency methods, are told in a report of the League for the Protection of Immigrants, a Chicago-born organization, headed by Judge Julian W. Mack and having for its director Miss Sophonisba Breckinridge of the University of Chicago.

The report, which is compiled by Miss Grace Abbot, acting director of the league, will appear in the next issue of the American Journal of Sociology, and because of the intolerable conditions described by Miss Abbot, redress for the immigrant and radical alteration in the business methods of conscienceless agents will be sought at the coming session of the legislature. A bill for the purpose of regulating all employment agencies, to the end that those doing a legitimate business may do it on an even footing and the crooked ones may be reformed, already has been drawn up by able constitutional lawyers. It has the backing of the local free employment agencies, as well as much political influence.

In the fate of the bill and the fate of the immigrant Chicago, the report explains, is interested as is no other town, for whereas New York is the sluice gate for immigrants, the flood rushes through and in the end becomes an eddy, seething through Chicago, with its hundreds of thousands of atomic individuals, twice or three times each year, in a manner unparalleled anywhere in the world.

Woman Has Best of Bargain.

There is nothing superficial about the investigation. It covers 178 of the 289 licensed employment agencies in the city with particular attention to the 110 which make a specialty of "handling" foreigners.

It deals with both foreign women and foreign men, and, contrary to popular belief, the woman generally has the best of the bargain in every way. So far as the employment agency is concerned but little indication was found of any intentional efforts to land the newly arrived girls in disorderly [illegible]ing them to wash dishes in saloons of unsavory character is noted. Forty of the 54 women's agencies investigated had a fee of $2 or less, only three had a $3 fee, while eight charged a per cent of wages. In the remaining three, the fees were not ascertained.

Show Caution Through Fear.

To the activity of the newspapers is credited in large part the extreme care shown by agencies with shady tendencies not to come within the clutches of the national laws protecting women immigrants. They further are aided by the great demand for household help, which drives housekeepers to the extreme of taking girls who speak no English at all.

Many Swindles on Helpless Men.

The man immigrant is the helpless one. The demand for him is found to fluctuate and often great numbers of late comers find no position for them, no money to get back to Chicago, and no possible way of getting a position unless he does come back, because Chicago is the clearing house for his sort of work for all the country.

Most of the man's troubles come from his own varied incapacities. He speaks no English, and must have an interpreter. For this reason he must be one of an obedient gang headed by a man who may be and likely is in the pay of the employment agency.

The main swindles practiced upon these men by agencies were found to be the following:

Employment agencies overcharge them for services rendered.

The work given them is not as represented by the agent, either in character, permanency, or remuneration.

The immigrant fails to get any work at all, or it lasts only a few days.

Fees Limited in Theory Only.

The maximum "registration fee" which the employment agent may charge is fixed by statute at $2, but this is not taken as limiting the right of private contract, and investigators found that for given jobs the agencies charged, in some instances, all they could get.

Of fifty-nine agencies for men thirty-five charged from $3 to $10 for securing employment and in most instances their agents promised the investigators "steady jobs" even when speaking of work which from its nature could not last longer than a few weeks or a month or two.

Fourteen agents said they had arrangements for dividing the aggregate "fees" with contractors, who also have been found to share in the supposed "fares," or to get all of them, the railway furnishing free transportation for men in its employ.

Shows Need of Reform.

The report gives several further instances and then sums up:

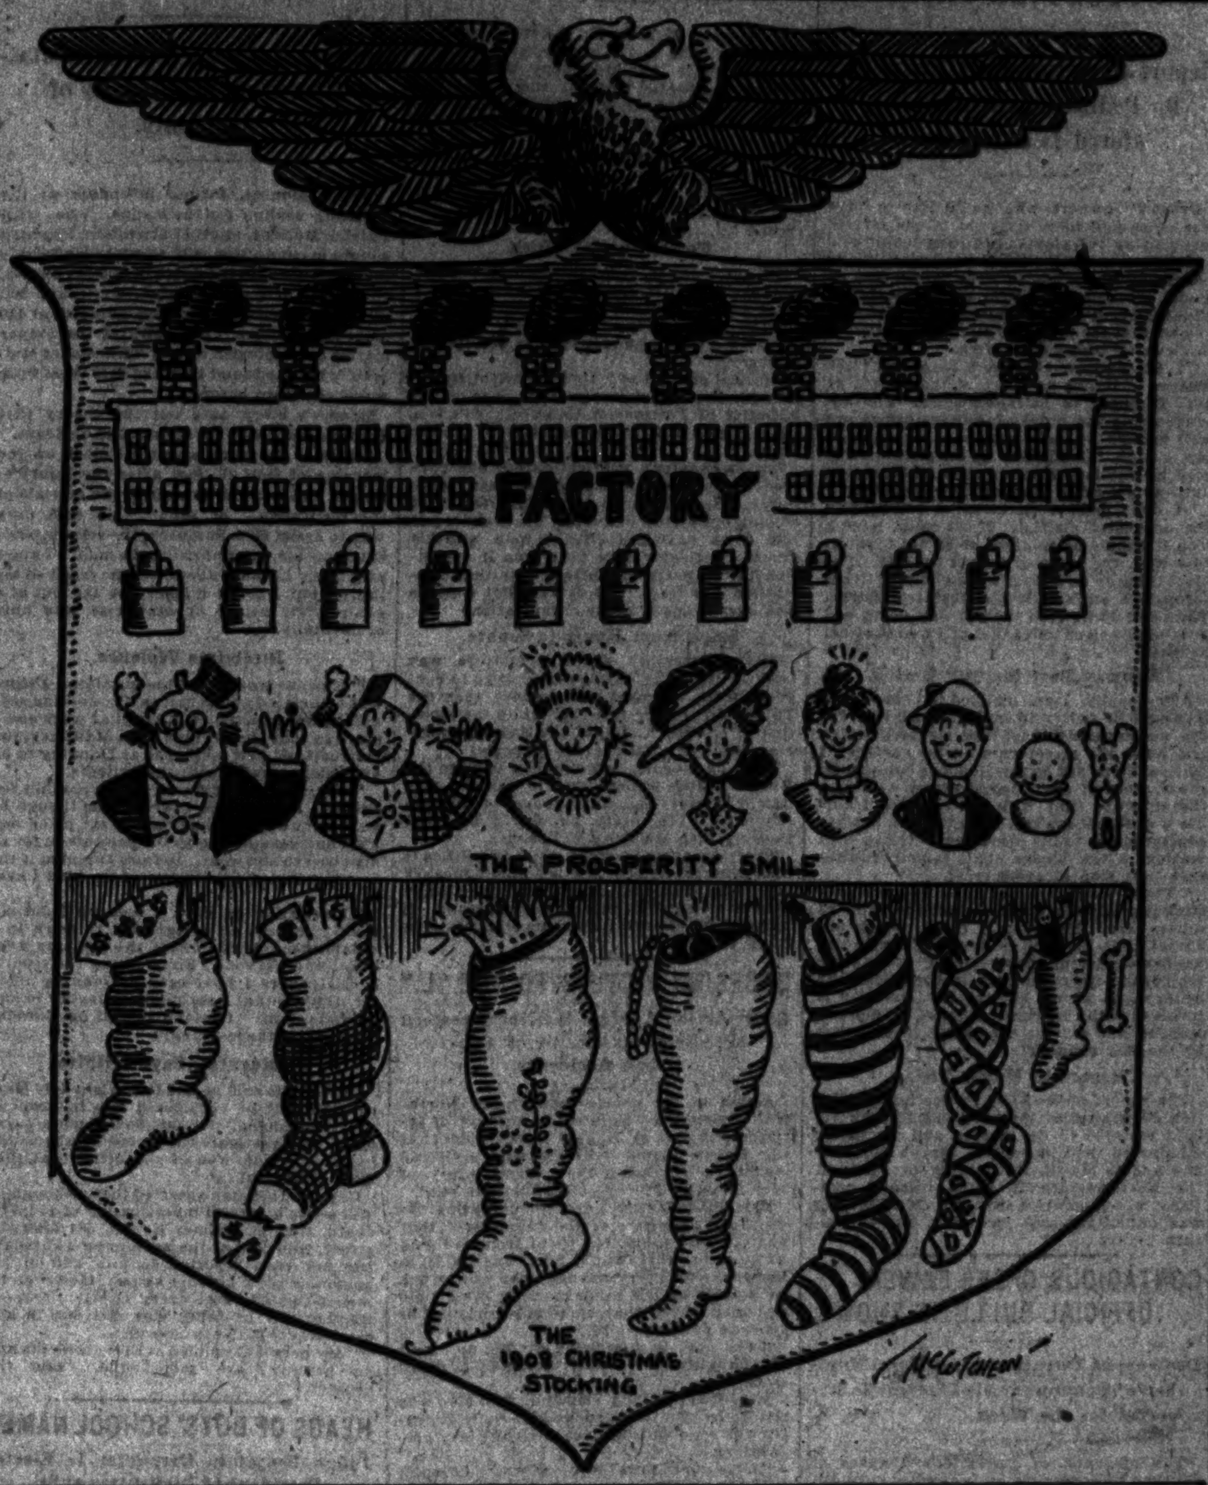
"For any of these men to get work without first returning to Chicago is practically impossible. There probably is work near where they are left in Wyoming, Arkansas, or Nebraska, but they have no means of knowing where it is to be found. Unable to speak English and with no funds to live on temporarily, they are afraid to go farther in search of work.

"This situation is important because it is not the result of a temporary economic condition. Seasonal work must be done in the United States. The work cannot easily be made attractive or desirable, but some system of handling these men honestly must be devised."

Miss Breckinridge outlined last night some of the main features of the proposed law.

"It will provide that the fee to be charged shall be stated in the agent's license," she said. "It will provide also that the terms of the contract shall be given in the language of the immigrant, and that this contract shall show for whom he is to work, how much he pays for the position, how much for fares or other expenses."

DESIGN FOR NATIONAL CREST.



AMPLE COMFORT AT $30,000

Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh Astonished at Mrs. Howard Gould.

$70,000 A YEAR TOO MUCH.

Chicago Woman Shows Lesser Sum Permits Full Social Life.

All of the pleasures of social entertainment are said to be obtainable per annum for less than $70,000 without rigid economy. Two of the best authorities on the subject in Chicago yesterday set forth in some detail the way it is done here easily, notwithstanding the fact that Mrs. Howard Gould of New York finds it impossible to live within her modest alimony, covering this amount. Thirty thousand dollars a year is the Chicago standard.

"Mercy! I don't see how she spends it!" exclaimed Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh when the story of Mrs. Gould's financial embarrassments was related to her. And yet Mrs. MacVeagh, better than almost any other housekeeper in Chicago, has practice in disposing of large sums of money whenever she wills.

"Of course," she qualified her first observation with a becoming reticence, "I should not wish to say how Mrs. Gould should arrange her expenses. No one can say how another ought to live.

Luxury at Less than $70,000.

"But from my modest standpoint, $70,000 on personal and household expenses is inconceivable." And this, notwithstanding Mrs. MacVeagh is considered one of the best gowned women in Chicago, one of the most perfect of our hostesses, and the mistress of one of our most expensive and richly furnished homes.

Her house on the Lake Shore drive was remodeled two years ago, at which time all of the costly improvements and rare furnishings that had caught her fancy in her travels around the world were introduced into her own home.

In every way Mrs. MacVeagh's housekeeping and hospitality are said to be in keeping with this setting, and yet when she was told that Mrs. Gould finds it impossible to keep her expenses within $70,000 the mistress of so much luxury expressed astonishment.

"I don't keep any record of expenses," Mrs. MacVeagh said slowly, as if giving the matter due consideration. "My clothes I haven't any idea about."

"Ten thousand a year?" asked some one of her tentatively.

Two Evening Dresses Enough.

"Mercy!" exclaimed Mrs. MacVeagh again. "I think that's awful. It seems to me that for even a woman who goes out a great deal two evening dresses a year are enough. Two, that is, with the addition of the two which she had the year before, when they are cleaned and made over. Evening dresses do not wear out, and can easily be made to do for two seasons.

"Then, I can't imagine what any one should need with more than two street dresses, with, of course, the ones from the year before. A calling dress and a tailor made dress seem to me to cover all occasions. House dresses and negligés are flimsier affairs, as a rule, than the street dresses, but two or three of those are as many as a woman needs—at least, you know, that is the way it seems to me, but it isn't possible and I have no wish to try to regulate other people's affairs.

"Some women consider furs a great and necessary item of expense. Of course, if you get cheap ones that owe their attractiveness to some particular cut or coloring, you will be at constant expense in replacing them. But if you get good furs there is no reason for buying another set for ten years."

"Jewels!" exclaimed Mrs. MacVeagh, a bit more surprised than she had been even at first. "I thought they had a cumulative value. I didn't know you had to charge them into your regular yearly expenses and buy a fresh set every twelve months. Those that I have are most of them keepsakes and presents. I never bought a jewel in my life except to give away."

The thought had been suggested to the interviewer by the contention of Mrs. Gould that $57,000 was a modest jewelry bill.

"Automobiles and the expenses connected with them are things I know nothing about. We have been waiting for Edison to make good his promise to perfect an electric motor and have not yet bought a machine. But we have horses, and I know that they don't bring our expenses up to any $70,000 a year.

$30,000 Covers Household Expenses.

"Of course the house is the big item. And I keep no expense records. But I should think that $30,000 would amply cover the servants, the cuisine, the entertaining, and all.

"Of course if you give a big cotillon—but people usually save and plan and arrange for that. One doesn't give a big affair every year.

"Four dinners a week, I should think, would be almost as much as anybody would be equal to from other considerations besides the money. And they, with the wine served at them, and all of the delicacies necessary, ought not bring up the bills to more than $30,000 a year.

"One item that can swell the amount indefinitely, of course, is charity and the demands made in its name on people of wealth.

Pay for Luxurious Tastes.

"Some people have much more expensive and luxurious tastes than others, and for them I suppose it would not be so simple to live on less than $70,000 a year.

"If you have to have flowers every day, as some of my friends do, the florists' bills are enormous. One woman I know has a fresh bouquet of orchids put in every room in her house every day. I have a bouquet only occasionally. So you see that I am not a representative woman to talk about this matter, because my temptations are not just the same as the temptations of all others.

"More of my money goes toward nursing myself out of an illness from which I have suffered for three years, more or less, than for evening gowns and orchids.

"Still, Mrs. Henry Clews, one of the richest women of New York, is a friend of mine, and I know that she gets just two new evening dresses and two new street dresses a year and makes her others do from the year before."

Too Much Money on Trifles.

Another expert on elaborate housekeeping unhandicapped by considerations of expense corroborated in a general way the asseverations of Mrs. MacVeagh. Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, while firmly repeating that one woman could not run another woman's ménage for her even in theory, admitted that $70,000 on household and personal expenses seemed a bit steep.

"I am not a society woman," said Mrs. Armour. "I never go to places in the evening, and therefore I have no evening dresses to speak of, and am not a fit person to sit in judgment on Mrs. Gould and her ways. But I do think that one should not go out of one's way to spend money unnecessarily on worthless trifles when there are so many people who have no money at all."

BOSNIANS USE DYNAMITE, KILLING 120 AUSTRIANS.

Barracks Blown Up at Konitza by a Band Making the Mountains Its Place of Refuge.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BELGRADE, Nov. 9, 3 a. m.—Night before last a band of Bosnians who have taken refuge in the mountains blew up with dynamite the barracks at Konitza, a town situated 120 kilometers from the Servian frontier in the interior of Bosnia. One hundred and twenty Austrian soldiers were killed.

CANNY CANNER CANS SQUEALS

Pigs' Vocalization Finally Put to a Commercial Use.

GOES INTO A PHONOGRAPH.

Now Absolutely Nothing Goes to Waste in the Stockyards.

An inventive genius has discovered that there is money in a pig's squeal.

That which the late P. D. Armour said was the only thing that went to waste at the stockyards now has a commercial value.

Millions of dollars' worth of squeals have gone to waste because it was not known what use to make of them. But now that their real value has been discovered the public will have to pay for squeals just the same as it pays for the hams, the loins, and other parts of the American porker.

Last Saturday a man carrying a camera and a machine for making phonograph records presented himself at the office of Swift & Co. at the stockyards and asked permission to take some pictures. He explained that he wanted the pictures for use in a 5 cent theater to illustrate a pictorial slide that is to be entitled "A Day at the Stockyards."

Method in His Madness.

"I will first take a set of moving pictures," he said, "and then I will get a record for the phonograph."

The caller's request was such a strange one that the office employés thought an insane man had found his way to the stockyards. The genius—for that is the only name to call a person who can turn a pig's squeal into money—divined what was passing through the minds of the office staff, and he remarked:

"You think I'm crazy, don't you? Well, it does sound like a crazy proposition, but it's perfectly legitimate, and will be a money maker. I make films and phonograph records for various amusement enterprises, and you know the public always is looking for something new. The thought came to me some days ago that a playlet, as we call it, of 'A Day at the Stockyards,' would be a 'corker.' There's what we call human interest in it. Now, with your permission, I'll get busy with the camera and reproducer and I'll get a scream for the 5 cent shows. Is it a go?"

Cans All the Noise.

The caller appeared to be perfectly harmless, and he was told to go as far as he liked. He first took the pictures of scenes at the yards, which included everything from the arrival of the cattle, sheep, and hogs to the dressed animal.

The sound of hoofs on the runways, the bellowing of the cattle, the bleating of the lambs and sheep, and the squealing of the pigs were all faithfully reproduced for the phonograph. The crack of the whip and shouts of the cowboys who drive the cattle through the yards will be heard as plainly as if one were standing in Packers' avenue in the center of Packingtown.

In the shackling pens where the hogs are hoisted to their death the squealing of the pigs will accompany a picture of the man with a knife. And in the cattle pens will be seen the man with a rifle raised to his shoulder. The crack of the gun will be heard as the beast falls. These and many other scenes will complete "A Day at the Stockyards."

CITY A BIG LOSER ON LIGHT PLANT.

Experts Report Current Could Be Purchased at Saving of More than $200,000 a Year.

MATTER UP TO COUNCIL.

Mayor Admits Waste Is Unavoidable Under the Present Plan of Municipal Ownership.

Chicago's municipally owned and operated electrical street lighting system is practically a financial failure, according to a report made to Mayor Busse by Engineer Bion J. Arnold and Auditor Arthur Young. The report indicates that the city would save from $200,000 to $300,000 a year by abandoning the manufacture of electricity and purchasing current entirely from the sanitary district or from private companies.

The mayor made the report public yesterday and will transmit it tonight to the city council for such action as the aldermen may deem necessary.

The report shows that the taxpayers have sunk $3,639,031 in the plant and equipment, which now have a book value of $2,608,144, or an actual value of $2,253,869. It cost the city last year $81.64 to maintain each of the 7,647 street lamps. At the same time the city is renting lights from the Commonwealth-Edison company at $75 per lamp per year.

Drainage Current Far Cheaper.

Under the present arrangement for the supply of current from the drainage canal the city has been able to reduce the cost to $60.56, and if it shall be possible to get all the current needed from this source it will be possible to reduce the cost to $42.17. In this event the city steam plants for the manufacture of electricity would be abandoned. If the city were to purchase current from private companies under a special contract the cost would be from $52.50 to $65 per lamp each year.

The city as a rule is able to get materials for about what private concerns pay, but it is asserted the materials are wasted by incompetent and unconscientious employés. Moreover, the city appears to be unable to get a full day's work out of its employés.

On account of this waste of materials and labor the city has been unable to manufacture and distribute electricity for its own use as cheaply as could a private concern. This deficiency of municipal administration was admitted by Mayor Busse, who was feeling pessimistic after perusing the report.

City Employes Shirk Work.

"A city employé," he said, "seems to think that he is required to do only about one-fifth of a day's work. Go out in the street any day and watch the employés of an electric light and power company putting up wires and other equipment. Then go over to the next street and watch the city electricians doing similar work. You will see the difference in the amount of work the company is getting and the amount the city is getting. The company's employés are required to do so much work each day and if they don't they lose their jobs and the company gets other employés who will do better. But with the city it's different—the employés loaf long and waste time and supplies at the expense of the taxpayers."

"Why don't you reform the department and put it on a business basis?" the mayor was asked.

"Reform nothing," replied the mayor with a trace of exasperation. "A private company can discharge inefficient employés, but the city can't. To get rid of inefficient city employés I have to file charges minutely specifying their shortcomings and then the civil service commission puts me on trial instead of the employés. I am a strong advocate of civil service—I think it is absolutely necessary in the administration of government—but there are some defects that must be remedied before the executive will have it in his power to run the government so as to give the people their money's worth."

Wants Service at Lowest Cost.

Critics of the administration have been free with their insinuations that the whole investigation of the city's electric lighting system was merely to pave the way for handing over the business to the Commonwealth-Edison company. The report clearly shows that the city would save money by so doing, but would save much more by purchasing current from the canal board. Mayor Busse put the stamp of malice on the insinuations by flatly declaring he favored obtaining current from the cheapest possible source.

"I think we should get all the current we can from the canal," he said. "That appears to be the best bargain we can make. The only question is whether the canal can furnish all the current we need. I am having this matter investigated, but have not received the figures. I have been told unofficially that there is a limit to the amount of current the sanitary district can furnish us and that it would be necessary to purchase some of it somewhere else. Personally I am convinced that it is folly to go on sinking money in an extravagant undertaking. It isn't business like. If we can purchase current cheaper than we can make it I believe we ought to purchase it wherever we can. The whole question, doubtless, will be thoroughly investigated by the council and a satisfactory solution reached."

May Enlarge Canal Plant.

The question of renewing the contract for canal current will be up to the council on Dec. 1, when the eight months' trial contract expires. The experiment of using the drainage current with the city steam plants held in reserve is declared to have been successful, and if the contract should be renewed the system will be extended on an up to date plan.

R. R. McCormick, president of the drainage board, is positive the canal can furnish all the current needed by the city. The board now is generating current measured at 12,000 horse power per day and will have 12,000 more available in a few months. A total of 41,000 horse power can be developed from the canal power as at present contemplated. The city now is using 3,000 horse power of canal current and operating 5,000 lights.

"The drainage board will be able to furnish all the current the city ever will need for its lighting," said Edward B. Ellicott, chief electrician of the sanitary district, who served for years as head of the city department of electricity. "The board is shaping its policy with the view of supplying the city all it needs."

Errors in Former Showings.

The reports of the department of electricity under Mayors Harrison and Dunne always showed that the city was making its own current and lighting the streets at a fraction of the figure at which the same service could be supplied by a private concern. In order to make this showing the department omitted from its scheme of bookkeeping such items as depreciation, interest on investment, taxes, insurance, real estate rentals, maintenance and repairs, departmental salaries, office rent, and the cost of water consumed.

Engineer Arnold and Accountant Young examined the vouchers of all the money spent on the plant, disentangled the chaotic scheme of accounting, included estimates of the ignored items, and found that the cost to the city for electric lighting from 1903 to 1907 had been as follows:

Year.	No. of arc lamps.	Production cost per lamp.	Total cost per lamp.
1903	4,827	$45.12	$86.11
1904	5,044	46.10	85.15
1905	5,749	46.37	78.90
1906	6,663	42.56	76.40
1907	7,647	44.74	81.64
Average for five years		$44.42	$81.46

Cost and Value of Plant.

As to the value of the plant and equipment the report says:

As shown by the vouchers and records the total amount expended from 1887 to August, 1908, on the electrical plant, consisting of land, buildings, power stations and distributing system was $3,655,406

From which are to be deducted:

Depreciation $916,356

Sale of Throop street plant.... 87,000

Loss from dismantling and sale of certain plants.... 48,905—$1,052,264

Value of existing plant on Aug. 1, 1908.. 2,603,144

of certain plants.... 48,905— 1,052,263

Leaving a difference of....$ 349,275

This difference may be explained by the fact that, if the city had written off annual depreciation at the rate established by the engineers for use in the accountants' report, and if it had placed this money in a sinking fund, it would today have had enough unexpended money in that fund to offset the above difference of $349,275, and thus make the book cost as of Aug. 1, 1908, less the surplus in the depreciation sinking fund, approximately equal to the actual appraised value as established by the engineers.

Cost of Service Increasing.

That the cost of operation under municipal management was increasing is shown by the fact that whereas it cost the city $81.64 to maintain each lamp last year it cost at the rate of $83.98 during the first seven months of the present year. The improvement came only with the abandoning of the steam plants and the purchase of current from the canal board. On the comparison of the present and the future cost of electric lighting the report says:

"The cost of light per lamp per year for 1907 was $81.64. With the system in operation as at present the cost per lamp per year will be $60.56. This reduction in cost will not be realized during the year 1908, on account of the fact that a large amount of the new equipment now in operation has been installed during the first few months of this year. This has necessitated the operation of the steam plants for a large portion of the year and has entailed the additional operating expense attendant upon the change from the old to the new system.

Expense Can Be Reduced.

"The cost per lamp per year in case the entire alternating current system were installed and supplied with power from the sanitary district would be $42.17. This cost is based on the present contract price for current with the sanitary district, which is equivalent to slightly over 0.5 cents per kilowatt hour for current supplied.

"The estimated cost per lamp per year under present operation is $60.56, which is $20.08 less than the cost per lamp per year for 1907. This reduction results in part from the cheaper cost of power as now purchased from the drainage board, and in part to a decrease in other operating charges, due to the installation of new and modern type of equipment, as well as to the results of the general policy of the department to replace the old and necessarily complex distributing system by a more simple and economical distribution layout. All of these factors enter into the reduction of cost that has been realized up to the present, and as they are applied to the system in the future will doubtless effect a still greater saving in the cost of lighting, until finally when all of the old equipment has been replaced by the newer type equipment and the capacity and reliability of the sanitary district power has been so proved as to permit of the discontinuance of the present steam plants the lower cost of $42.17 per lamp per year should be realized, provided the sanitary district board continues to furnish energy at the same rate as that given in the present contract with the city. This is a special price for energy used for municipal purposes made by the sanitary board to all municipalities that lie within the sanitary district, and is done for the reason that these municipalities have borne the expense of creating the property by which the energy is produced."

Private Rates Forced Down.

The less radical municipal ownerites admit that all the elements that enter into the cost of producing electricity should have been allowed, as is done in the accounting of a private concern. They are ready to admit that financially the city lighting system has been unprofitable, but they insist that its existence has resulted in many benefits to the people. They say the city competition has resulted in forcing down the price of electric current charged by private companies and, by making the demonstration, made it possible to compel the private companies to put their wires underground.

MAN WHO IS SICK TAKES LIFE WHILE HIS FAMILY IS AWAY.

He Shoots Himself, Another Slashes Throat with Razor, While Third, About to Be Married, Breathes Gas.

Despondent because of illhealth, William F. Moorman committed suicide last evening in his home, 569 West Seventy-seventh street, by shooting himself in the head. He died three hours after Dr. Samuel A. Waterman of 7162 Hawthorne avenue reached the scene. Moorman at the time was alone in the house, his wife and three children visiting friends in the neighborhood. The man was 38 years old.

Adolph Dobinsky, 1806 West Harrison street, Oak Park, slashed his throat with a razor yesterday morning, his body being found by his widow on her return from church. He was 62 years old and had been ill for some time.

Samuel P. Brady, 22 years old, 477 West Congress street, is thought to have committed suicide in the morning by turning on the gas in his room. He is said to be the son of wealthy parents in Cincinnati, O., and was to have been married next month.

Mrs. Laura Wells attempted to commit suicide by drinking strychnine in a restaurant at Kenosha because her three small children had been taken from her and sent to an orphanage.

FIGHT FINE ON UNSAFE ENGINE.

Wabash Road's Attorneys Say Commission Cannot Regulate Equipment Used in One State.

The right of the interstate commerce commission to regulate engines not used in interstate traffic will be tested tomorrow before the United States Court of Appeals.

The case is regarded of great importance because it hinges upon the use of safety appliances. It involves a decision of Judge Humphrey, who imposed a fine upon the Wabash road for neglect to equip one of its engines with an appliance for the protection of employes.

The road appealed the case upon the ground that the deficient engine is used in one state only, and therefore is without the jurisdiction of the commission.

TEAR OUT LOOP, ADVICE OF MAYOR

Busse Favors Having Elevated Trains Pass Through a Subway.

NOW STUDYING PROBLEM.

Report Showing That Noise Can Be Reduced and Light Restored Is Completed.

Property owners who would like to have less noise and more daylight in the streets occupied by the elevated railway loop found a convert to their liking yesterday in the person of Mayor Busse. The mayor said he would go them one better and advocate the elimination of the loop altogether. He suggested that the proposed subway be devoted to elevated trains downtown.

"I am against the union loop," said the mayor. "It has no place in the streets at all. It ought to be taken down. The improvements the property owners desire are well enough in their way, but they don't go far enough. Conditions in the streets occupied by the loop never will be satisfactory until we get rid of the structure altogether.

"I don't believe in elevated railways in the congested district. If we must have a loop it should be enlarged so as not to interfere with the crowded part of the city. The ideal thing to do is to run the elevated trains through a subway in the business district. They should go into the subway north and west of the river and south of Twelfth street at least.

Subway Best for "L" Trains.

"Personally, I am inclined to believe that it would be better to build the subway for the accommodation of the elevated trains and leave the street cars on the surface. I believe there are many illusions concerning the success of operating street cars through the subway. But with the elevated trains it's a different matter. The subway is more nearly suited to the operation of trains with stations a few blocks apart than it is to the cars that stop at every street.

"These views are not final, as I am only studying this big problem just the same as others are. However, I think every one agrees that the loop is unsightly and noisy besides darkening the streets. Perhaps some temporary improvements in conditions can be brought about, but the final solution is involved with the working out of the subway problem and will be considered in due time by the city council."

Report to Mayor Today.

The report of the Loop Protective association showing that the noise can be reduced, light restored to the streets, and congestion eliminated will be sent to Mayor Busse today and to Mason B. Starring, president of the Northwestern Elevated railway company, which controls the loop. Mr. Starring was out of the city yesterday, but will return today.

CONTAGIOUS CASES FEWER, OFFICIAL BULLETIN SHOWS.

Decrease of Twenty-three in Total Number of Communicable Diseases Is Reported for the Week.

The epidemic of contagious diseases in Chicago is decreasing, according to the weekly bulletin issued on Saturday by the health department. The report in part is as follows:

"A total of 607 cases of communicable diseases was reported to the department during the week, this being 23 fewer than the preceding week but 320 more than the corresponding week of last year.

"To the total diphtheria contributed 187; scarlet fever, 181; measles, 56; chickenpox, 24; pneumonia, 17; typhoid fever, 45; whooping cough, 14; tuberculosis, 55; diseases of minor importance, 28.

"As compared with the preceding week there were 27 fewer cases of diphtheria, 42 fewer of typhoid fever, and 17 fewer of tuberculosis. Scarlet fever cases increased 4; measles cases, 34; chickenpox, 8; and whooping cough, 7.

"Indifferent and lax observance of quarantine is held to be chiefly responsible for the continued prevalence of the acute contagious diseases of childhood. During the week numerous lawsuits were begun against violators of quarantine and against physicians who failed to report cases of contagious diseases under their care. Many other prosecutions will be instituted the coming week.

"There was but one case of smallpox in the isolation hospital at the close of the week."

BUSINESS MEN INVADE SOUTH ON TOUR OF TRADE EXPANSION

Chicago Association of Commerce Delegation Not Unhappy Over Necessity of Visiting Land of Balmy Breezes.

Strictly business, of course.

Why else would twenty-five busy business men leave Chicago for the balmy breezes of the sunny south? Surely nothing more urgent than the commercial interests of their city would drag them away on such a journey.

Smiling, yes even laughing, to hide the pain of departure the members of the Chicago Association of Commerce left last night at 7 o'clock on their special train for a two weeks' trip through the south for the purpose of booming their home city. It will be the longest and most important trip that has been made by the association.

EX-SEN. MASON ON CITY ROLL

Given a Nice Plum in the Municipal Law Department.

CAMPBELL'S HAND IS SEEN.

Postmaster Believed to Have Influenced Mayor's New Appointment.

Ex-Senator William E. Mason becomes a member of the city's law department this morning. The announcement may sound strange to Senator Hopkins and other politicians who have recently not taken the former Illinois senator much into their calculations.

Mayor Busse does not seem to care. At any rate Mr. Mason has been offered a position which carries with it as large a salary as a United States senator draws and has accepted it.

To Do Special Work.

"What I am to do," explained Mr. Mason last evening, "is some special assessment work growing out of various improvements now in progress or contemplated. Strictly speaking, I will be more in the line of a special attorney."

Political gossip has it that his selection for this, his first appointive position, was on the initiative of Postmaster Campbell, who is a close friend and ward supporter of Mayor Busse.

The ex-senator's political career has covered many years and produced many surprises. He has shown a peculiar faculty of coming out on top just when his enemies put him down as wiped off the map, and his greatest victories have been won in opposition to the party organization as then constituted. In fact, this is the first time he was ever included in the organization.

Steps from House to Senate.

While a member of the legislature, way back in the early '80s, he tried to go to congress from the west side district, then the Third. In this he ran counter to the ambition of George R. Davis, the then congressman, but won after years of struggle.

Then he thought he would like to go to the United States senate, and in this he was fought by every political manager of any consequence in the state, but finally beat out Congressmen Madden and Lorimer.

The ex-senator's strong point in politics is his oratorical ability. He is a public speaker of the first class and his services have always been in demand in important campaigns. It has won for him when machine organizations could not.

CROSSING VICTIMS TO SUE "L."

Court Action Against the Northwestern Predicted as Result of Suburban Accidents.

Action in the courts against the Northwestern elevated railway on account of injuries received by Rogers Park residents at the Hayes avenue crossing was projected yesterday, following the critical injury of Mrs. Maurice Pincoffs, 3701 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Pincoffs was unconscious during the day, and members of the family said that anxiety had prevented them from deciding what action they would take, but Dr. H. S. Brewer, 4052 Perry avenue, who was struck by a train at the same crossing some time ago, announced that he would bring suit as soon as possible.

"The case is now being worked up," said his daughter. "The crossing is a death trap."

Mrs. Pincoff's son Edmond, who also was struck by the train, spoke bitterly in charging the road with neglect of elementary precautions.

"Only one gate was down," he said. "There was a watchman, but he gave no signal."

The "vanishing glory" and increasing prosperity of the northwest were recalled last night when a special train bearing Gov. The party is on its way to witness the launching of the new battleship North Dakota at Fore River, Mass., on Tuesday.

MORE LIGHT CAST ON ASYLUM DEATH

"Ed" Monroe, Former Attendant at Dunning, Found by a "Tribune" Reporter.

NO VIOLENCE, HE AVERS.

Coroner Hoffman Believes Fatalities Were the Results of Accidents.

"Ed" Monroe, former attendant at the Dunning asylum for the insane, who with Patrick Mullane, another attendant, has been sought in connection with Coroner Hoffman's investigation into the death of Gustav Peiper, an inmate of the institution, was found last night by a reporter for THE TRIBUNE at 110 Dearborn avenue. His story of the Peiper matter corresponded closely with that of Mullane, who was found living at 1416 West Polk street the night before.

Monroe's story bore out the theory that Peiper's death was the result of an accident.

"I went to work about 9 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 27, just after the injury to Peiper had become known to the officials of the institution," he said. "My first duty was to assist Mrs. Sampson, the superintendent of nurses, in comforting the man. I know absolutely nothing about how he received his injury, but I think it likely he fell out of a chair while asleep or otherwise was hurt accidentally.

Disclaims Violence.

"Violence was out of the question. Peiper was emaciated and delirious. I have had several years' experience in hospital work and I may say that Dr. Wilhite, head of the asylum, instructs all new employés at Dunning to be extremely careful with the patients.

"Mrs. Sampson did everything possible for Peiper. She worked over him as though he were her own son. Every one in the place was kind and considerate to the patients so far as my observation went. In fact, Dunning is the best conducted institution of its kind I ever saw.

"I resigned on Nov. 1 because I did not wish to accept an assignment to work in a troublesome ward, where the patients were noisy and nervous. Since seeing the reports in the papers I have been to Dunning to tell Dr. Wilhite that I am ready to testify in any investigation. I intend to call on Coroner Hoffman in the morning."

Accidental, Says Wilhite.

Dr. Wilhite said he had been visited by Monroe and that he considered him innocent of any wrongdoing. He said he had made every effort to investigate the recent deaths at the institution and was of the belief that they were accidental.

Coroner Hoffman asserted that although he will make a careful investigation of Peiper's death, that of Kalmer Krupp, 304 Maxwell street, who died at the asylum on Thursday, has not been reported to him and in his opinion is not a coroner's case. However, he said he would exert every effort to find out whether any brutality was exercised in any case where patients have died.

"My personal opinion is that accidents and not brutality are responsible," said the coroner.

WOMAN CUSTODIAN OF MANIAC

Brings Man from Quebec on Request of American Consul.

ACTIONS CAUSE POLICE QUIZ.

Miss Marie Demers En Route to Oshkosh with Insane Patient.

Having in custody an insane man whom she was taking from Quebec, Canada, to his home at Oshkosh, Wis., caused the detention in Chicago of Miss Marie Demers of Sweet Grass, Mont. Miss Demers told the Harrison street police last night that she was importuned by William W. Henry, American consul at Quebec, to bring A. W. Bryant to his home in Wisconsin. Bryant is a telephone lineman, who for eighteen months has been employed in Canada. He is about 30 years old.

A few days ago Bryant, according to the woman's story, became insane. She had known him since last August, having met him at the tercentennial celebration of Quebec, which took her to Canada.

Her visit being finished, she began preparations for her return to Montana. Bryant was being cared for by his friends, who learned of Miss Demer's contemplated return to the United States, and she was asked to take the afflicted man in her charge.

Assured by Physicians.

At first she demurred, fearing that he might become violent en route, but physicians assured her that there was no danger. It was not until the American consul made a personal plea that she consented to bring Bryant with her. Transportation was procured for Bryant by friends and Miss Demers started with him last Friday. A 4 year old niece of Miss Demers, who accompanied her to Canada, also was with her.

On the arrival of the party in Chicago they were driven to the wrong railroad depot. Miss Demers' ticket was for the Wisconsin Central railroad to St. Paul and the train left at 10:30 o'clock. Sergeant Bruder found her at that hour on State street inquiring the way to the Illinois Central station. Observing the strange actions of the man, the sergeant questioned the woman and learned from her of his insanity.

All Taken Into Custody.

The woman, Bryant, and the child were all taken to the Harrison street station. Miss Demers produced a letter from Consul Henry which explained how Bryant came to be in her custody.

Miss Demers will be compelled to remain in Chicago until 6:30 o'clock this evening before a train leaves for St. Paul over the Wisconsin Central road. She and the child are being cared for at the Harrison street annex. Bryant was placed in a witness cell.

BURGLAR ROUTED BY NERVY WOMAN

Mrs. Fred Evans Grabs Revolver and Fires at Man Who Had Scared Her Boys.

COMPLEXION SAVES A GIRL

Brunette Flirts with Robber Suspect Who Had a Blond Feminine Scout.

Two interesting "burglar episodes" occurred in Chicago yesterday. Early in the morning one of the most persistent burglars on record was put to flight by a plucky woman with a revolver. Late in the evening—as the result of a flirtation with a strange man—a schoolgirl narrowly escaped arrest on suspicion of being an accomplice of the burglar who robbed the residence of H. S. Fisk, 1248 Jackson boulevard, late in October. Fisk is the man who suggested the organization of a vigilance committee to aid the police in finding burglars.

The heroine of the first episode was Mrs. Fred Evans, 5121 Lowe avenue, who shot at the man when he was trying to enter the house for the third time during the night. As a result of the affair, residents of the neighborhood joined in an unsuccessful search for the burglar and later signified their intention to ask Chief of Police Shippy for more protection than is afforded by the police of the stockyards station.

Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Evans left early for the theater, leaving their three sons, Harry, 7 years; Raymond, 13 years; and Charley, 15 years, at home. As the couple left the house a neighbor's boy called to Raymond to "come out and play." The answer was such as to make it plain that the boys were to be left alone in the house for the evening. Two young men, strangers in the neighborhood, were standing a few feet away, but nothing was thought of it at the time.

Burglar Calls Boys to Door.

About 11 o'clock the boys prepared to go to bed. A knock was heard at the back door of the cottage and Raymond went in answer to it. Somebody was rattling the knob from the outside. The boy refused to let him in and the man went away.

About 1 o'clock the parents returned home and retired. It was close to 3 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Evans was awakened by a noise. Through the door of the bedroom she could see a light playing on the ceiling of the dining room. She awoke her husband and together they started to investigate. Mrs. Evans picked up a revolver which was lying on a dresser.

At the front of the house they entered the same bedroom which the burglar had attempted to enter earlier in the evening when the boys were alone. A man was climbing through the half opened window into the bedroom.

Mrs. Evans fired and the man dropped back to the ground and ran. Investigation showed that the bullet had entered the casement of the window. The neighbors, after organizing the volunteer force to hunt for the burglar, remarked that, despite the noise and confusion which ensued, no policemen made their appearance.

She Is Brunette; Other a Blonde.

The schoolgirl who narrowly escaped arrest in connection with the Fisk burglary attends the John Marshall high school.

She proved she did not know the character of the man with whom she was corresponding and showed that every time she met him she had been accompanied by a younger brother. Now that she has been informed he is a burglar she has agreed to aid the police in tracing him. Capt. S. K. Healy of the Warren avenue police believes her statement.

Now the captain is looking for another girl of the same age—16 years—but of a different appearance. The one he now seeks is a pretty blonde, whereas the girl interviewed during the day is a brunette.

Seeks Paroled Convict.

Ray Belding, alias Sparrow, a paroled convict from Pontiac, Capt. Healy admitted, is the man being sought by the police on suspicion of connection with the robbery.

Belding has been suspected of committing robberies ever since his release, about two years ago, but the police were never able to get proof against him. Some months ago Capt. Healy arrested him on general principles, but at the hearing Harry Woods, a west side politician, interceded for the prisoner and Judge Wells openly stated the arrest was not justified and ordered Belding released.

Girl Acted as His Scout.

It has just become public that while the burglar was ransacking the flat of Mr. Fisk on the second floor a good looking girl was on the floor above talking with Mrs. H. M. Huff.

Mrs. Huff believes the girl hoped to gain admission while the water was being procured, but the woman kept the girl waiting in the hall. Later the girl was observed on the opposite side of the street looking over anxiously, and she is believed to have joined the burglar as soon as he got a safe distance from the house.

With this clew the police began seeking the numerous girl friends of Belding, and the search took Detectives Michael Trant and John McGonnigal to the high school girl's home on the west side. Their request that "she come to the station and see the captain" brought forth bitter tears from the girl and indignation from an older sister and the mother. The latter almost swooned and begged that the girl be spared the publicity of a trip to the station.

NEGROES START RIOT ON CAR.

Score of Colored People Returning from Funeral Fight White Passengers and Police.

Twenty negroes, men and women, caused a riot on a Madison street car late last night while on their way home from a funeral at Melrose Park.

After fighting among themselves they turned on many white passengers while the car was in the barns at West Fortieth avenue and Madison street. Sergeant Patrick Kelleher, in attempting to stop the fight, was knocked down and beaten.

Passengers and car crews then drove the negroes back to one end of the car, where most of them escaped by breaking the windows and leaping out. After a chase five of them were captured and taken to the Desplaines street station.

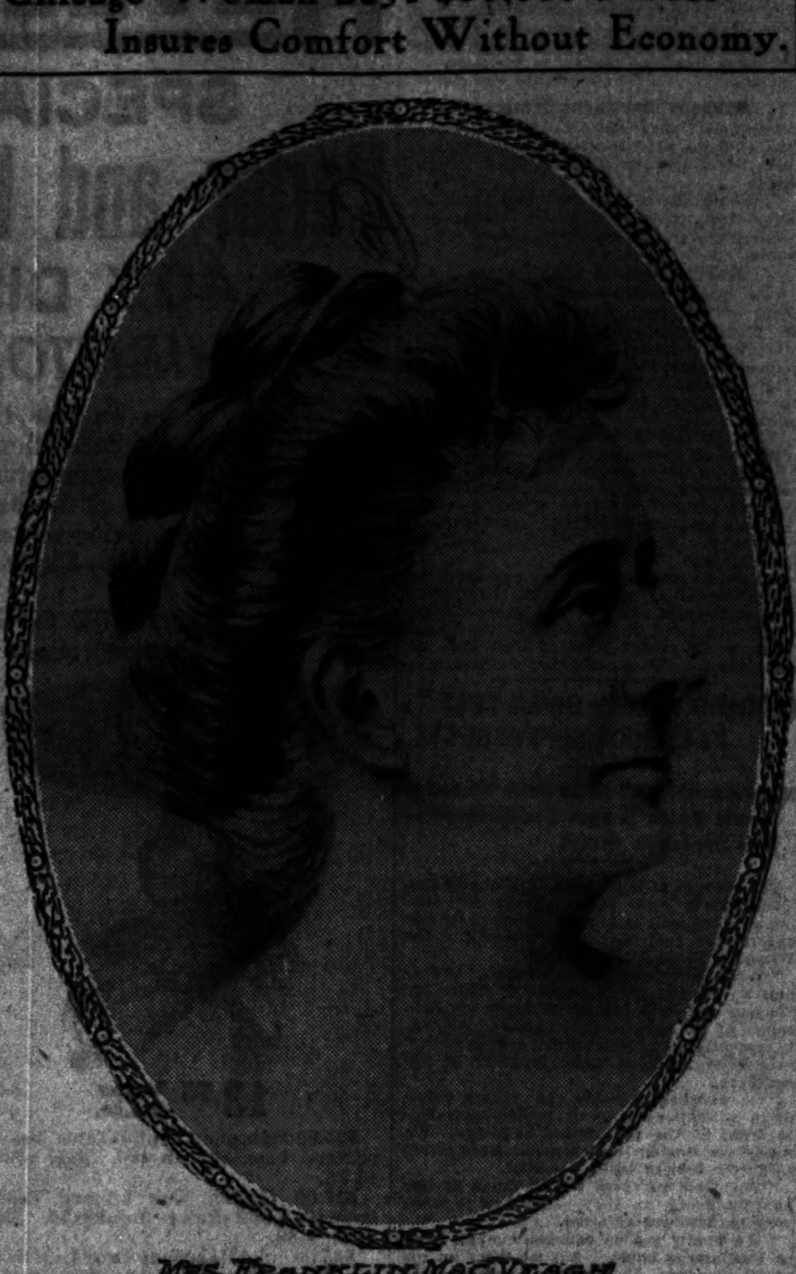
Chicago Woman Says $30,000 a Year Insures Comfort Without Economy.



MRS. FRANKLIN MACVEAGH

Mrs. Howard Gould's testimony in a New York court to the effect that she had been unable to live as befitted her station in life on allimony of $75,000 a year has caused surprise among Chicago women accustomed to luxurious surroundings. Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh said yesterday that with an allowance of $30,000 any woman could enjoy all the pleasures of social life without rigid economy.

WIFE OF ALLEGED BIGAMIST IS CHEERED BY HER FRIENDS.

Mrs. Esther Falkenstein, Settlement Worker, Determined to Aid Husband, Protesting His Innocence of Charges.

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Esther Falkenstein, head of the settlement house at 714 North Humboldt street, thronged the rooms of the settlement building yesterday and expressed their sympathy for the woman, whose husband, Herman Falkenstein, is under arrest in the county jail, charged with bigamy.

Mrs. Falkenstein wore an expression of care and extreme fatigue, but is determined to defend her husband against the bigamy charges brought by Miss Elvira Smith, 10 Oakland crescent.

"Thank you," said she as her women neighbors and beneficiaries of the settlement cheered her with expressions of sympathy.

Mrs. Falkenstein said she will continue her settlement work as though nothing had happened to disturb her domestic happiness.

THINKS WAG USED "LOST AD" TO "FIND" MISSING COUPLE.

But Dr. Anson Cameron, Brother of the Bridegroom, Cannot See Any Possible Joke in the Act.

"Lost—A bride and groom between Kittanning, Pa., and Chicago, anxiously awaited by many friends; answer to the names of Anna and Dan; valuable only for association's sake. Telephone information to North 888."

In the advertising columns of THE TRIBUNE this morning the above lines will be found.

"Anna and Dan" are Dr. and Mrs. Dan Uhl Cameron, who are expected in Chicago today from a three months' honeymoon trip in Europe.

Some friend of the dentist-bridegroom, who in his leisure moments is a practical joker, and who was present at the wedding of Dr. Cameron to Anna Berton Doverspike at Kittanning, the home of the bride, on Aug. 3, is suspected of having the "lost ad" published.

THREE ROB HOUSE IN FAMILY'S VIEW

Two Stand Guard with Guns While Third Picks Up $10,000 Loot.

Burglars Threaten to Sever a Brooklyn Man's Finger if Denied Jewel.

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Three men early today broke into the home in Brooklyn of Charles E. Tayntor, blackjacked him in his sleep, and while two of the burglars kept the family covered, the third robbed the house at his leisure. The thieves carried away about $10,000 worth of jewelry and silverware.

Mr. Tayntor, while verging into elderly life, is a big man and still husky and active. He is a crack shot with a pistol, being a member of the pistol team that represented the United States at the Olympic games last fall. The men evidently knew all about Mr. Tayntor and they weren't taking any chances with him.

Girl Pleads for Parent's Life.

"Open your mouth," said the leader, "and we'll blow your brains out."

He reached under Mr. Tayntor's pillow and pulled out a revolver. Then he turned to search the bureau drawers, leaving his companions to cover Mr. and Mrs. Tayntor in the bed. The daughter, Alice, 15 years old, ran into the room.

"Don't shoot father," she shouted, crying a bit. "Please don't shoot papa or mamma."

"You get in bed there," commanded one of the men roughly. A minute later the two sons, Charles, 8, and Harold, 12, ran in to see what was up. They were covered, too, and ordered to sit on the bed.

On the table by a jewel case two plain gold rings were lying. One was Mrs. Tayntor's wedding ring. When the burglar picked up this she began to beg him not to let his greed run away with his humanity.

"Aw, it's gold, ain't it?" retorted the fellow. "Cheer up. I'm going to take it along."

"The h—l you are," broke in one of his companions. "I'm a married man, too, and you'll leave that ring alone."

The looter put it back. But when it came to rifling the children's banks the Tayntors didn't fare so well. Harold's bank had $15 in it and Charlie's had $2.

Threaten to Sever Finger.

On one of his fingers Mr. Tayntor had a diamond ring worth $500. It fitted on tightly and with all their pulling the men couldn't tug it off. One of them got out a jack knife, which he opened and handed over to the chief.

"Cut the finger off," he suggested.

"Hold on, hold on," broke in Tayntor in alarm. "Let me up and I'll get it off. I'll be square with you men. Just let me run to the bathroom and get some soap and water and I'll get it off for you."

"O, no," laughed the leader. "We'll get the soap and water."

After they got off the ring they pulled the bed clothes off the bed and tied Mr. Tayntor hand and foot.

After lifting up the curls on Alice's head to make sure the girl didn't have earrings the gang made off. They cut the telephone wires as they went, and it was an hour before the police were notified of the robbery.

STEEL BARS DEFIED BY LOVE

Sweetheart of Burglar Suspect Sure He Is Innocent.

KISS FOLLOWED BY PRAYER.

Charles Brietske Is Visited in His Cell by Miss Mary F. Reed.

A pathetic scene was witnessed at the Hudson avenue police station yesterday afternoon when the sweetheart of Charles Brietske, paroled convict and burglar suspect, insisted on entering his cell that she might clasp her arms around his neck, kiss him, and express confidence in his reformation.

The young woman—Miss Mary F. Reed, a stenographer, 262 North State street—went with the prisoner's aged mother in response to a telephone message from Brietske and voluntarily surrendered a gold watch and chain and pin that he had given her at the time of their betrothal. She told Lieut. Max Heidelmeier she would do all in her power to have him released. In an effort to avoid publicity the young woman desired to remain in the background, but when the lieutenant told her she might be in a position to aid her fiancé and that the presents he had given her probably had been stolen she resolved to fight for him openly.

Sure Mistake Was Made.

She departed from the station firmly convinced that "a terrible mistake," as she expressed it, had been made and agreed with Brietske that their wedding should take place as soon as he "got out of this scrape."

These women are not the only persons who believe in Brietske's innocence, for a representative of the piano firm of Steger & Sons, by whom Brietske has been employed ever since his parole from Joliet in 1906, called to cheer him.

Brietske gave Miss Reed an order directing his landlord at 686 North Park avenue to turn over to her all the furnishings of his flat.

The prisoner spent most of the day on his knees in silent prayer, and told one of his visitors that the police were abusing him in an effort to wring a confession from him. So far as could be seen, however, the prisoner is being treated with kindness. He has been questioned repeatedly, but has made no damaging admissions.

Expect to Find More Loot.

Regardless of Brietske's attitude the police have strengthened their convictions of his guilt, and Detectives Richard J. Jackson, Peter Germanson, and Thomas Baynes, who arrested him, say they have a clew to another "plant"—a place where they expect to recover more loot. They hope also to produce witnesses who saw him enter some of the flats of persons who have identified goods among the plunder.

"O, Charlie, I'm so sorry to see you here," Miss Reed cried. "I know it's a terrible mistake," and then, addressing Lieut. Heidelmeier, she pleaded, "Please unlock the door." It was done and an instant later the two were in each other's arms.

Then the prisoner dropped on his knees and prayed for a speedy release, while Miss Reed stroked his head in a comforting manner and his mother stood silently but tearfully by.

"Mary, if I had only embraced your religion sooner we might have been married, and I never would have been unjustly suspected of burglary," Brietske finally said. "I was wild in my youth, but the tortures I suffered during three terms of imprisonment made my reformation complete."

"I have faith in you still and will wait," replied the woman, and the interview was at an end.

BERLIN PRESS SHY OF KAISER'S TALK.

Papers Independent of Government Influence Indulge in Sarcasm.

LONDON GETS THE DATA.

Times Correspondent Cables That 150,000 Copies of the Century Are Destroyed.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Obviously in response to pressure from official quarters the Berlin press is almost universally silent in reference to the suppressed account of the interview with the kaiser by William Bayard Hale, which the Century magazine was to have published in its December issue. Only three journals, which boast utter independence of "inspired" influence, mention the incident.

The Tageblatt publishes a cablegram from its New York correspondent directly contradicting the assurance given by the foreign office last night that no pressure was brought to bear by the German government. The correspondent asserts that the government actually "resorted to extremes in order to avoid warlike developments."

The socialist Vorwaerts asks sarcastically who is going to reimburse the Century for its destroyed plates and whether the government perhaps has a secret fund for use upon such occasions.

The democratic Morgenpost declares it is a genuine piece of good fortune that the interview was "killed."

The incident is certain to figure in Tuesday's debate in the reichstag and be adduced by various speakers as a fresh evidence of the necessity of constitutional safeguards against "imperial indiscretions."

Comment Published in London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 9, 3 a. m.—The Times this morning prints the following cablegram from its American correspondent in New York:

"The information contained in my telegram on Friday relative to Dr. Hale's interview with the kaiser appears to have been correct."

Then follows the notice of withdrawal of the Century publication, with the following:

"In response to my request for additional information as to why a portion of the edition containing the article, probably 150,000 copies, in the hands of the binders had been destroyed, both the publishing and editorial departments of the Century replied that so far as the Century was concerned there was nothing more to be said. They washed their hands of the whole business. When Dr. Hale asked to be allowed to withdraw the article they assented. All the morning newspapers here print accounts of the suppression of the article for the first time.

"From other sources I learn the New York Times last summer thought it would be of interest to their readers to obtain a similar talk with the kaiser as that which Dr. Hale had with Mr. Roosevelt and which, when issued, attracted considerable attention.

Von Sternburg's Hand in It.

"The German ambassador at Washington, now deceased, was consulted and approved the idea and gave Dr. Hale proper credentials to the foreign office at Berlin.

"Arriving at Berlin, Dr. Hale was told that the kaiser was away on his yacht in Norwegian waters and that he could not see his majesty. With commendable enterprise Dr. Hale overcame this difficulty by going to Norway and was received by the kaiser on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern at Bergen.

"According to a Berlin dispatch published at the time, his majesty spent nearly two hours walking the deck alone with Dr. Hale, conversing in the most animated manner upon things American, particularly the personality of Mr. Roosevelt, as well as other interesting subjects as set forth in the Century announcement of the article cabled on Friday, which indicates the kaiser spoke to Dr. Hale with considerable freedom on a wide range of topics.

Kaiser Hits Britons Hard.

"I am given to understand the emperor spoke in not flattering terms of high English personages and the supposed attitude of Great Britain toward Germany was criticised in a far from friendly manner. In short, that interview showed anything but an amicable spirit toward England.

"The article, I am told, was submitted by Dr. Hale to the German foreign office, but was objected to, not altogether because of its subject matter, but because it was proposed to publish it in a daily newspaper. In consequence of this objection the New York Times appears to have abandoned its publication.

"Later, however, it appears the foreign office in Berlin revised the article, possibly after some elimination, with the understanding that it must be published in a magazine of high repute.

Big Edition Already Printed.

"The Century purchased the article of Dr. Hale, spent a large sum advertising it, and printed it for publication in its Christmas number. Either the contents of the article or the changed policy of the German government or the commotion caused by the recently published interview now makes it desirable to suppress the article, which has apparently been done at great cost.

"There is strong belief here that it will be impossible to prevent its final publication, perhaps through some less responsible medium, as numerous proofs have been struck and the article actually printed in the December number of the magazine. It is more than probable, therefore, that copies are in the hands of outside persons, who may find means of publication. So far as the New York Times, the Century, and Dr. Hale are concerned, they acted throughout with discretion and sense of responsibility."

INDIA OFFICIAL'S ESCAPE FROM FOURTH MURDER PLOT.

Other Bengalis Flee When Countryman's Attempt on Lieutenant Governor's Life at Calcutta Fails.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 8.—The daring attempt by a Bengali to assassinate Sir Andrew Henderson Leith Fraser, the lieutenant governor of Bengal, recalls three others attempts made upon his life since his appointment to office in 1903.

On the occasion of this last attempt, later details show, the lieutenant governor, accompanied by the maharajah of Burdwan and Secretary Barber of the Young Men's Christian association, attended a lecture given by Prof. E. D. Burton of Chicago university at the town hall.

Just as the lieutenant governor stepped upon the dais a young man who afterwards gave the name of Nhowdbury rushed up and thrust a revolver within a few inches of Sir Andrew's body and pulled the trigger twice. The cartridges missed fire. Mr. Barber, who is an American, flung himself upon the Bengali. The latter struck savagely at the secretary with his revolver and wounded him severely on the head, but was eventually overpowered.

A group of Bengalis occupying front chairs jumped quickly to their feet and rushed out of the hall.

CUBA PREPARES TO GOVERN

Elections at Hand Pave the Way for Autonomy.

UPON THE RIVAL TICKETS.

General Menocal and Gomez Presidential Candidates.

HAVANA, Nov. 8.—Elections will be held next Saturday throughout the island for president, vice president, senators, and representatives in the lower house of congress, to whom, according to the present program, will be committed the fate of the restored Cuban republic on the termination of the government of intervention, Jan. 28, 1909.

The troops of the United States will be withdrawn on that date, which is three days in advance of the date originally set, in order that their departure may mark the anniversary of the birth of José Martí, the Cuban patriot, and the great body of Cubans have striven during the last few months towards a selection of a candidate who will best realize their desire for self-government.

Preparations for the elections are now complete. All of the election officers have been appointed, the electoral boards organized, and the last ballots distributed.

Cuban Election Rival Candidates.

The conservatives are headed by Gen. Mario Menocal and Dr. Rafael Montoro, the presidential and vice presidential candidates, respectively, while Gen. José M. Gomez and his former bitter rival in the party leadership, Alfredo Zayas, are the nominees of the liberal party, the Miguelista and Zayista factions of which finally united their forces in support of Gen. Gomez, on the understanding that he would not be nominated for a second term.

Both Gen. Gomez and Gen. Menocal are veterans of the revolution, and have a large following in virtue of their distinguished services in the field. Dr. Montoro is the foremost orator in Cuba and was nominated in the expectation of his being able to control the Spanish vote.

Factions in Gomez's Party.

Señor Zayas is the idol of a large section. He was the leader of the last uprising against President Tomas Estrada Palma. His followers are suspected of giving but lukewarm support to the candidacy of Gen. Gomez, between whom and Señor Zayas there was an implacable feud until it was apparent that the existence of the liberal party was dependent upon a compromise, whereby Señor Zayas withdrew his pretensions to the presidency. The two factions, however, did not actually fuse, but Zayas accepted a nomination for the vice presidency, and his adherents promised to aid in the election of the coalition candidates.

Until recently the conservatives apparently had the better chance, based on confident expectations of defection from the liberal party of Juan Gualberto Gomez, editor of La Lucha, and Brig. Gen. Ernesto Asbert, who a short time ago was elected governor of Havana. These anticipations have not been realized, and it is now rumored that Señor Gomez will receive an important diplomatic appointment in return for his loyalty to the liberals.

The announcement that Gen. Estenoz, leader of the independent negro party, will not support Gen. Gomez, has, however, given encouragement to the conservatives.

RELIGIOUS BELIEF MAN'S OWN AFFAIR

Roosevelt Declares Creeds Should Have No Place in Nation's Politics.

AGE OF BIGOTRY PASSED.

Vigorous Reply to Attacks Made on Taft During Recent Campaign.

United States, who is a Roman Catholic.' I believe that when you say this you foully slander your fellow countrymen. I do not for one moment believe that the mass of our fellow citizens, or that any considerable number of our fellow citizens, can be influenced by such narrow bigotry as to refuse to vote for any thoroughly upright and fit man because he happens to have a particular religious creed.

"Such a consideration should never be treated as a reason for either supporting or opposing a candidate for a political office. Are you aware that there are several states in this union where the majority of the people are now Catholics? I should reprobate in the severest terms the Catholics who in those states or in any other states refused to vote for the most fit man because he happened to be a Protestant; and my condemnation would be exactly as severe for Protestants who, under reversed circumstances, refused to vote for a Catholic.

Where Creed Counts Not.

"In public life I am happy to say that I have known many men who were elected, and constantly reëlected, to office in districts where the great majority of their constituents were of a different religious belief. I know Catholics who have for many years represented constituencies mainly Protestant, and Protestants who have for many years represented constituencies mainly Catholic; and among the congressmen I know particularly well was one man of Jewish faith who represented a district in which there were hardly any Jews at all. All of these men by their very existence in political life refute the slander you have uttered against your fellow Americans.

"I believe this republic will endure for many centuries. If so there doubtless will be among its presidents Protestants and Catholics, and probably at some time Jews. I have constantly tried while president to act in relation to my fellow Americans of Catholic faith as I hope that any future president who happens to be a Catholic will act toward his fellow Americans of Protestant faith. Had I followed any other course I should have felt I was unfit to represent the American people.

Divergent Faiths in Cabinet.

"In my cabinet at the present moment there sit side by side Catholic and Protestant, Christian and Jew, each man chosen because in my belief he is peculiarly fit to exercise on behalf of all our people the duties of the office to which I have appointed him. In no case does the man's religious belief in any way influence his discharge of his duties, save as it makes him more eager to act justly and uprightly in his relations to all men.

"The same principles that have obtained in appointing the members of my cabinet, the highest officials under me, the officials to whom is intrusted the work of carrying out all the important policies of my administration, are the principles upon which all good Americans should act in choosing, whether by election or appointment, the men to fill any office from the highest to the lowest in the land. THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Gibbons' Pertinent Comment.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Cardinal Gibbons, after reading President Roosevelt's letter upon Mr. Taft's religion, tonight said:

"I would like to say two things about the letter—first, it is well worth reading and pondering over, and, secondly, I knew it was coming out."

Rabbis Pleased with Letter.

New York, Nov. 8.—Commenting on the letter of President Roosevelt dealing with Mr. Taft's religious faith and with religious prejudice in general, Rabbi Joseph Silverman of Temple Emanuel said tonight:

"I consider President Roosevelt's views on religion and politics as safe, sane, and sound."

Rabbi R. Grossman offered the following comment on the letter:

"This letter expresses the gist of Americanism and should be classed with Washington's letter to the Jews of Newport and the emancipation proclamation of Lincoln."

Rabbi W. H. Harris, Temple Israel, in Harlem, said:

"It seems to me the views expressed by Mr. Roosevelt are so thoroughly sound from a common sense point of view, so broad from a religious point of view, and so consistent from an American point of view that no right minded citizen can object to them."

CHICAGO WOMAN GIVEN TEST AS LONDON SUFFRAGETTE.

Miss Anna E. Nicholes Tells Women's Trade Union League She Declined to Sell Papers on Street.

The courage of Miss Anna E. Nicholes as a "suffragette" was put to a severe test during a recent visit to London. She related her experiences yesterday at a meeting of the Women's Trade Union league.

"When a committee of English 'suffragettes' handed me a bundle of Votes for Women and told me to go forth and sell copies of the paper for their cause I suddenly remembered I had a special engagement," said Miss Nicholes, amid laughter of her audience.

"On another occasion the women asked us to accompany them to the demonstration in front of the parliament buildings. We American women told them we were afraid to go for fear of being arrested.

"They told us there wasn't much danger on that score, as they often had to work very hard to get arrested.

"We finally got up courage enough to go to Parliament square, but we went on top of an omnibus. I saw five 'suffragettes' arrested.

"In Europe they can tell an American at sight," continued Miss Nicholes. "I don't know why it is, unless it is by their better grade of shoes."

SAYS FLIES SPREAD TYPHOID.

Dr. W. A. Evans Talks on Causes of Fever in Address at Maywood Church.

"It is impossible for typhoid fever to be communicated by the air," said Dr. W. A. Evans of the state board of health in an address at the First Congregational church, Maywood, last night. "The disease is always caused by something that is eaten containing the germs, and I have found that water, milk, and raw vegetables are the worst offenders along this line." Dr. Evans also told how house flies spread the disease and cause the fever by contaminating the food and drink. He also discussed the handling of food with unclean hands, regarding such a practice as dangerous.

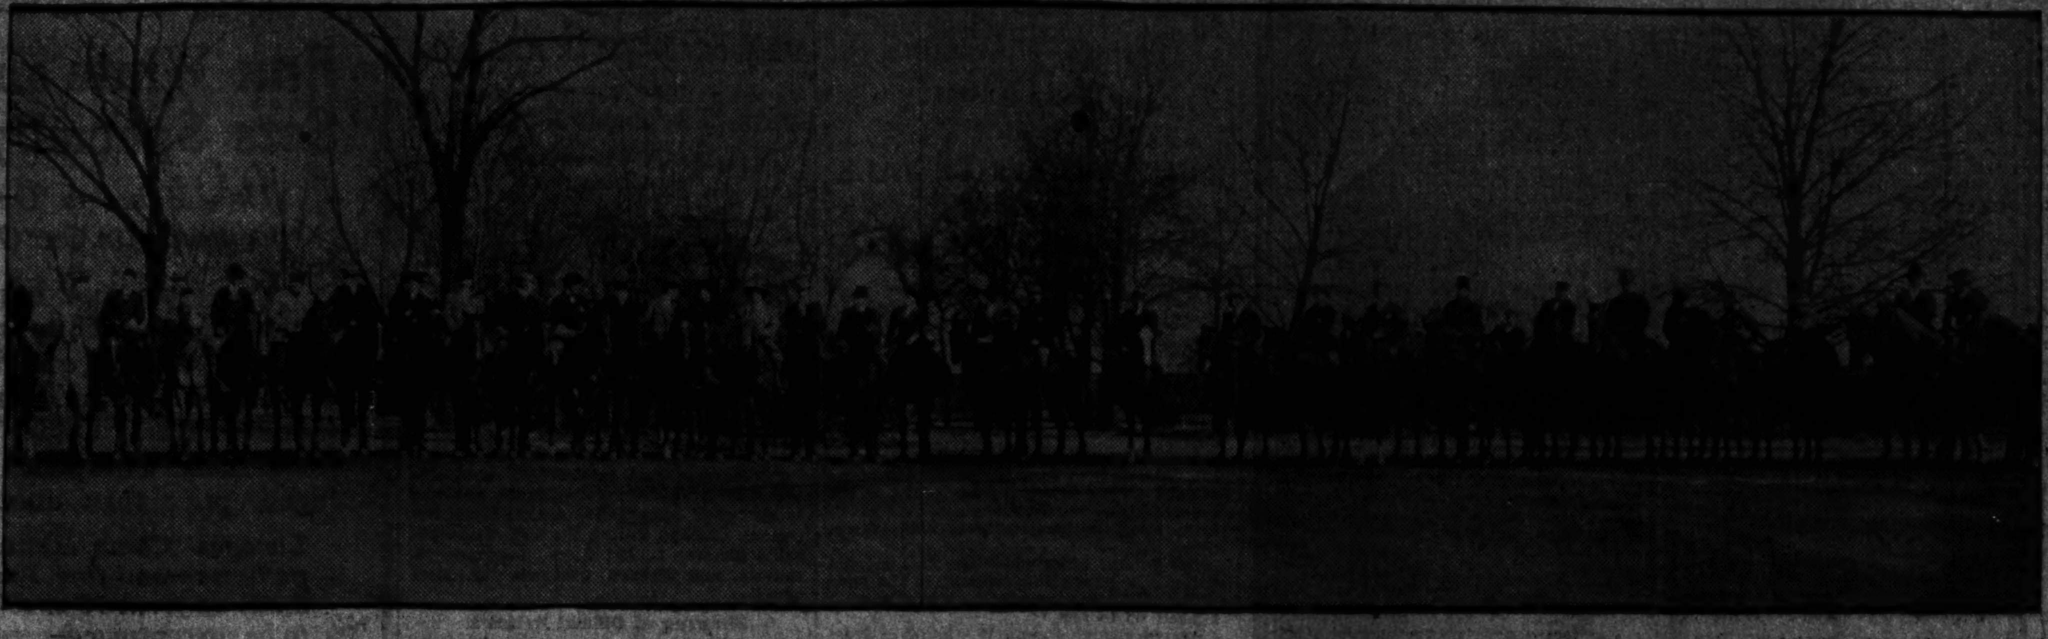
Ninety-Two in Cavalcade Marking Revival of Chicago Equestrianism.

[From photographs taken for THE TRIBUNE.]



HORSE ADMIRERS VIEW CAVALCADE.

Crowds Gather on North Shore to Watch 92 Enthusiasts Enjoy Fine Canter.

OLD PASTIME IS REVIVED.

Many Chicagoans Join New Equestrian Club for Spirited Cross Country Dashes.

Have you ever taken a dashing ride on the back of a spirited horse in the crisp coolness of the morning air? If you have not done so, many horse enthusiasts living in Chicago would say that you had not tasted one of the most exhilarating of joys. And many converts to this view were made as the result of viewing the largest informal equestrian turnout in the history of the city on the north shore yesterday morning.

The crowds that throng Lincoln park and the adjoining boulevards seemed as much pleased as surprised by the ninety-two men and women who rode in a body back and forth from the river to Cornelia street.

It was the Sunday morning ride of the Chicago Equestrian association that created the furore, and the same association promises that this is but a start. It is said that there are nearly 1,500 habitual riders in Chicago, and by a vigorous campaign for better facilities for riding it is hoped to double this number before the winter is over and have the whole body organized for mutual benefit.

The association was organized but a few weeks ago, and has already over 120 members, and has done much in the way of improving north side bridle paths and opening new fields for riders.

Saturday afternoon, for instance, more than twenty men and women enjoyed a cross country run of about thirty miles; and what is more extraordinary, half of this distance was within the city limits of Chicago. The members were tremendously enthusiastic over this feat, finding a straightway course of seven miles over hedges and ditches, hills and fields before crossing the boundary line of the city in which they and over 2,000,000 other citizens live. So successful was this informal steeplechase that similar courses within reach of Chicagoans will be mapped and classified by the association.

That is, cross country courses of all degrees of hardness and of all lengths will be laid out so the timid beginner and the most daring horseman may each find something to his taste.

The course taken Saturday began a little north of the Irving Park boulevard across the north branch of the Chicago river, and ran in a happy-go-lucky fashion over the fields along the bank of the river, crossing in turn the following streets, each of which being a section line is a mile from the other: Lawrence avenue, Kedzie avenue, Fortieth avenue, Bryn Mawr avenue, Forty-eighth avenue, Fifty-sixth avenue, Devon avenue, Sixty-fourth avenue.

In like manner the association will prepare a map showing the pleasant rides in and around Chicago. These will not in any way duplicate the work of automobilists in the same matter, for the courses that are desirable for the automobilist are the worst kind of roads for the horseman. The latter's idea of an ideal road is a soft dirt path with no specifications as to width or number of curves. The hard asphalt or macadam that makes glad the heart of the motorist makes lame the horse of the equestrian.

In another direction the equestrians already have made themselves felt. There has long been a theoretical bridle path from the river north through Lincoln park to Cornelia street. A large part of it, however, has been long in bad repair and the section from Belmont avenue to Cornelia street has been monopolized by speeders as a miniature race track. At the urgent request of the association the Lincoln park board has put these paths in excellent repair, giving the riders almost five miles of bridle path along the lake shore and through the park.

It was over this course that the ninety-two members rode yesterday morning and it was declared by many to be the finest ride of its kind in the world. Among those who are authority for this statement are George P. Nichols, president, and Dr. Charles Spencer Williamson, secretary of the association, who visited New York, Washington, and Richmond for the purpose of getting ideas for their campaign.

One of the dearest desires of the society at present is to have a bridle path beside every road in the enormous new addition which is being made to Lincoln park on the north. A fight for more paths on the south and west sides also will be begun soon.

The earnestness of the members is shown by the fact that they get out not only on Sunday, but also every morning, forty to sixty men and women being in the park every morning before 7 o'clock.

Pastor Declines Princeton Call.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8.—The Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, numbering among its congregation many of the most prominent men of Pittsburg, today declined to accept the chair of homiletics at the Princeton Theological seminary.

100 WOULD BE MISSIONARIES

Men, Women, and Girls Answer Call to Spread Gospel in China.

TWENTY-FIVE ARE ACCEPTED

Remarkable Response to Appeal of Evangelist in Chicago Church.

At a meeting in Union Park Congregational church yesterday afternoon 100 persons in the congregation arose and volunteered to go at the first call to China as missionaries. Of this number twenty-five will depart on Jan. 1 from Seattle, to be assistants to the Rev. William R. Newell, the evangelist whose appeal brought about the unexpected volunteer of services.

None of the volunteers went to the church with any intention of giving up household duties or business cares. As the address of Dr. Newell proceeded, however, it was evident that his description of conditions in China and of the crying need for missionary workers was having a potent effect.

His talk frequently was interrupted by cries of "Amen," and a wave of sympathy swept over the audience when he criticised the government for its activity in recruiting and enlarging the army with young men whose mission was to be to "kill men in the orient instead of saving them."

Many Promptly Answer Call.

Dr. Newell concluded his address by asking those to rise who "felt that they were absolutely prepared to answer God's call and to do his bidding instantly, even if it involved leaving Seattle on Jan. 1." By ones and twos women, girls, and a few men began to rise in the body of the church.

Pacing the platform, the evangelist continued urging others to join. A negress in the gallery rose and almost instantly a dozen other persons near her were on their feet, sitting down after the pastor had thanked them before calling for more volunteers.

The speaker instructed the prospective missionaries to communicate at once with Mr. Matthews of the Moody institute, who would furnish them with missionary literature and who would see to the selection of the twenty-five whom Dr. Newell wants to have as an aid to his work in China.

Says Army Spoils Young Men.

Referring to the American tendency to increase the army and the armament of the nation, the speaker said:

"Thousands and thousands of young men went to the Philippines, enlisted solely to kill men. But not one of those same men was willing to go there bent on peace and with the object of saving men instead of killing them.

"Today the government is constantly seeking to enlist recruits, and it goes to the parents and asks them to give up their boy to its service—the boy whom father and mother have done so much, have sacrificed so much to bring up in the right way. But the government does not give the parents any guarantee that the boy will be as carefully cared for in the army as with his parents. Instead it teaches him to kill, to drink, and discloses to him, under the caption of 'an opportunity to see the world,' all the vices that he should not know.

Blames British Government.

"The British government in another way is quite as much to blame as our own, for it has nullified the attempts of the Chinese to put down the opium traffic by maintaining dens in the large cities of China set apart for the uses of the foreigners under their own law, to which the Chinese have access."

After proclaiming the English and American residents of Hongkong and Shanghai as lawless and the greatest extant stumbling block in the way of Chinese evangelization, Dr. Newell said he hoped to Christianize these colonies.

The evangelist after expressing great pleasure over the unlooked for success of the meeting said he would leave this week for London, and from there he will journey to Shanghai to devote three months to his work.

BAND MUSIC PREVENTS PANIC.

People Leaving Flower Show Become Excited Over Fire, but Harmony Drowns Noise.

The efforts of the brass band in the Coliseum, where the flower show is in progress, prevented a possible panic last night when a fire broke out in a pile of boxes and papers in the alley back of the Coliseum annex. As the fire engines drew up in front of the Coliseum door scores of persons leaving the flower show to return to their homes became excited. Before knowledge of the fire spread through the building, however, the band commenced to play a march and the noise made by the engines was drowned by the music. The blaze was extinguished in a few minutes.

Detectives Break Up Poker Game in North Clark Street Store and Make Captures.

The keeper and five inmates of an alleged gambling resort were arrested early this morning by Detectives Blaik and McGurn of the Chicago avenue station when they raided the cigar store of Peter Bretz, 41 North Clark street. Bretz was arrested as the keeper of the place, where a poker game is said to have been in progress. The inmates are William Rose, James Tramm, William Johnson, Charles Tucker, and Harry Chunace, all young men.

WEDDING NEARS; JOY IN CELL

Miss Catharine Livingston Still Loves Cain Despite Woes.

THEFTS TO BE MADE GOOD.

Ex-Wisconsin Lawmaker Changes Views and Agrees to Marry.

The scratching of a pen on a wedding certificate will spell "finis" at the end of the crime chapter in the life story of Miss Catharine Livingston, who came to Chicago from Wauwatosa, Wis., and stole so that her sweetheart, Elmer E. Cain, a former Wisconsin legislator, might be provided for.

There will be no orange blossoms and there will be no wedding march. There probably will be no minister. A Municipal court judge, it is expected, will tie the knot that will send the two again into the world to struggle anew and forget, if possible, the short space of time they played at the "affinity" game in Chicago and lost.

There will be little festivity at this wedding, for the father of the bride to be is dying in the small town where the Livingstons for many years have lived, and the white haired mother, broken by her daughter's misfortunes, will be the only relative present.

Girl Happy Even in Cell.

Yesterday it became known that Mrs. Livingston had returned to Wauwatosa to raise the money necessary to make restitution for her daughter's thefts. Early this morning she will return to Chicago and go to Miss Ethel Klemp and Mrs. Elizabeth Whitley, two Chicago women whose purses were stolen by the girl prisoner at the Harrison street annex, and will offer to reimburse them for their losses.

"You have your money back; now let my daughter go," will be the mother's plea, and this will be the plea before the Municipal court judge before whom Cain and Miss Livingston will be arraigned today.

Mother Goes for Money.

"What is to be your attitude relative to marrying Miss Livingston?" Cain was asked in the cellroom beneath the detective bureau where he is being held.

"I am going to marry her if she will let me," he replied, sobered by his three days' imprisonment. His air of bravado had vanished and he had stopped blaming the Livingston girl for his predicament.

"When will you be married?" was another question.

"Whenever her mother says we should," was the reply. "I have made several mistakes and it is about time I started to make atonement. My first mistake was in going into politics in Wisconsin. It cost me $500 to become a legislator and I've been erring ever since."

Cain then inquired anxiously after "Kitty."

These two, whose antenuptial days are being spent in cells, cannot see each other and can only send messages back and forth by persons who visit them.

Cain Willing to Marry.

"I am happy even under these circumstances," declared the Livingston girl at the Harrison street annex. "Elmer is going to marry me and we will go away from this dreadful town and start anew. It makes no difference what I've done or what he's done, I care for him and that settles it."

"Do you expect to be freed of the larceny charge?" she was asked.

"I don't know," was the reply. "Our getting married, of course, doesn't mean that I shouldn't be punished for stealing. But those women might be kind and let me go. It's my first offense, you know."

When she learned that her caller was going to visit Cain she said:

"Carry my love to him, will you? And tell him to cheer up. Make him understand that I am going to stick to him, no matter what people say or do."

NINE CHILDREN BITTEN BY PUPS FED BY RABID MOTHER.

One Boy Dies and the Other Eight Youngsters Will Arrive Here from Terre Haute Today for Treatment.

Eight children, bitten by pups which had been fed by a mother afflicted with rabies, will arrive here from Terre Haute today for treatment at the Pasteur institute. The mother dog was killed not because she was thought to be mad but because it was believed she had an incurable ailment. The ten pups were distributed among neighbors.

Peter Grosse, 12 years old, one of the boys bitten by the pups, died last Friday. The other victims are Anna and Harry Grosse, his sister and brother, Cecilia, a cousin; Charles, John, and Lulu Gary; Lena and Walter Endicott. The children range in age from 2 to 4 years. The families are poor and $600 was raised by popular subscription to send the children here.

Mrs. Barbara Dvorek of Wauzeka, Wis., was taken to the Pasteur's institute yesterday by Dr. G. A. Perrin. She had been bitten by a colt suffering with the rabies communicated by a mad dog three weeks ago.

The colt's brain was brought to Chicago and Dr. Lagorio found it contained rabies baccilli. Mrs. Dvorek is 78 and on account of her advanced age she may die from her injuries.

Three persons who were bitten by cats suffering with the rabies are under treatment at the institute. They are William H. Felkner, 58 years old, Fordland, Mo.; S. A. Johnson, 16 years old, Omaha, Neb., and Harry Fisher, 19 months old, St. John, Kan.

NAT GOODWIN MARRIES AGAIN

Edna Goodrich the Mate of His Fourth Venture.

KNOT TIED BY AN UNKNOWN.

Boston the Place and Official Statement Is Made.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Nat C. Goodwin, the comedian, embarked on the sea of matrimony for the fourth time in his life today when he married Edna Goodrich, former show girl and for one season his leading woman. The marriage took place at the home of Mr. Goodwin's mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Goodwin, early this afternoon, and the wedded couple planned a return to New York on the midnight train tonight.

For some reason the name of the person who performed the ceremony was kept secret, but it will become public when he makes his return to the city register's office. George O. Weeden, Goodwin's manager, said a justice of the peace married the couple, but Mr. Goodwin declared a clergyman friend of his father had tied the knot.

Mr. Goodwin, Miss Goodrich, Mr. Weeden, and Mrs. Nellie Stevens, the bride's mother, arrived in Boston this morning from New York. They breakfasted at a hotel and then went to the Goodwin home in an automobile, where they received a hearty greeting. All day a crowd of curious people hung about the house hoping for a peep at the bride, but without success. After the ceremony Goodwin received the reporters and with blushing happiness announced that he had been married.

Goodwin Announces His Marriage.

"Yes, it's all over, we have been married," he said. "This affair was not any different from other weddings except possibly that it is raining outside. I am going upstairs now to have a game of bridge, but you must not ask me what the stakes are. My wife will give you all the facts about the marriage. I don't know much about the toggery, as the new styles have me guessing. She'll tell you all about it."

Raising his voice the groom yelled: "Come out here, Mrs. Goodwin, and tell the boys all you can."

There was no answer. Evidently the bride had not become accustomed to being addressed as "Mrs.," but when called "Edna" she quickly came downstairs and received the newspaper men in a friendly manner.

"There," exclaimed Nat, "doesn't she look stunning?"

Mrs. Goodwin did make a charming bride. She wore a handsome gown of white net over liberty silk chiffon, embroidered with white silk braid and a white silk sash encircled her waist.

Jewels Valued at $80,000.

Jewels said to have a value of $80,000 were also worn. They included long drop pearl earrings, a diamond necklace said to be worth $20,000, the gift of the groom, a diamond dog collar, said to be the duplicate of the one owned by the duchess of Marlborough, and on her right hand was an English tea ring containing forty diamonds. This was the engagement ring.

The ceremony was performed in a small parlor which was bedecked with American beauty roses, lilies of the valley, and brides' roses.

Besides the family and Mr. Weeden, the only other witnesses were J. B. Melville and William Hinckley of this city, intimate friends of Goodwin.

Afterward there was a wedding feast, then a photographer took a picture of the couple.

"Look natural, Edna," said Mr. Goodwin. "If you don't, we will look like a couple of yaps."

GRILL FOR PATROL DRIVER.

Assault on Boy Made by Member of Police Department to Be Investigated by Superior Officers.

Lieut. Thomas F. Cronin of the Fiftieth street police station will confer with Inspector Hunt today regarding the assault made on Norbert Kennealy by Patrol Driver William Kiernan Saturday night while the police were attempting to capture burglars at the residence of Otto Sonneschein, 5621 Prairie avenue. Kennealy is 14 years old and lives at 5620 Prairie avenue.

"I had a sergeant up to the Kennealy house most of the day waiting for the boy's father, but he could not get to see him," Lieut. Cronin said last night. "A woman who declared the driver knocked the boy against her refused to tell her name. Others acted likewise and none would agree to appear before the trial board.

"Kiernan said he struck the boy lightly, but I told him he had no business to get off the wagon. From what I gather the boy addressed him insultingly. The case will be investigated thoroughly."

Police Seek Children's Grandmother.

The police instituted a search last night in an effort to learn the address of Mrs. Rance, who, according to her two grandchildren, Will Rance, 8 years old, and Alfred, 5 years old, lives "near the bridge where the trains cross." The two boys were found near Harrison street and Wabash avenue. They said they had come from Freeport, Ill., with their father, William Rance, to visit their grandmother. The boys have been placed in charge of the matron at the Harrison street station annex.

MRS. EASTMAN NOT WORRIED

Confident Charges Will Fall Flat, Friends Say.

IS SHE TO WED EDWARDS?

Chicago Relative Declares Arrest Revengeful Trick.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—If Mrs. Sophonisba Harrison Eastman is worried over the sensational affairs of last week, in which she played the leading part, she did not show it today.

Apparently as free from care as when reigning over Buck Shoals, the historic Bill Nye home she purchased eight years ago, Mrs. Eastman spent the day in and about the little hotel where she has lived since dispossessed of Buck Shoals by Col. O. E. McBee recently.

Mrs. Eastman refuses to say anything for publication in the matter. Public sentiment is swinging round in her favor and persons who were unfriendly to her now openly express their sympathy.

Is She to Marry Edwards?

The latest report in connection with the sensation is that Mrs. Eastman and Rider Edwards, the young man with whom she is charged in the warrant issued at the instance of Col. McBee's son with having lived in a house in violation of a North Carolina statute, are to be married soon.

Col. McBee spent a gloomy Sunday at Buck Shoals, having been given until tomorrow by the receiver of the property to move. He will come to this city tomorrow to consult his counsel in regard to the suit brought by Mrs. Eastman, because of which he is now under $4,000 bond.

Confident She Will Be Cleared.

Her suit was filed yesterday, and Superior Court Judge Murphy named S. G. Bernard temporary receiver. The latter last night took possession of Buck Shoals.

The allegations of the suit are that Mrs. Eastman expended about $30,000 on Buck Shoals. It is alleged that with the advice of Col. McBee she placed the title in a corporation, and now she is dispossessed of her property because Col. McBee is an officer of the company.

The hearing of the charge against Mrs. Eastman has been continued until Nov. 19. If at this hearing the charge is not shown to be true the man causing its issuance is liable for false arrest.

Mrs. Eastman is confident of the result, her friends here say.

SISTER SEES VENGEFUL TRICK.

Mrs. Heaton Owsley, sister of Mrs. Sophonisba Harrison Eastman, yesterday declared the trouble in which her sister is involved in North Carolina was brought about by a desire for revenge on the part of Col. V. E. McBee.

"The whole affair is purely a matter of revenge," said she. "We stand ready to aid Mrs. Eastman in any way we can, but we have received no word from her. If it should become necessary all the members of our family in Chicago will go to Asheville to help her in her contest with Col. McBee.

"The charge brought against her is ridiculous. She wanted to get possession of her property, Buck Shoals, which was managed by Col. McBee. When she demanded full possession he refused to give it up."

PLEADS FOR RICHER LIVES

Prof. Zueblin Wants Human Existence Prolonged and Bettered.

OPPOSED TO RACE SUICIDE.

Holds the Care of Children to Be of the Utmost Importance.

Prof. Charles Zueblin, formerly of the University of Chicago, spoke before the Society of Ethical Culture in Handel hall yesterday on "Education and Life." Among other things he said:

"Education and life means, in the first instance, making, preserving, protecting, prolonging, enriching life. We not only ought to have a better chance to get into the world, but a better chance of staying here.

"At the close of the nineteenth century came the rise of evolutionary science, but we are not witnessing any marked improvement in the human race, as compared with 4,000 or 10,000 years ago. With our scientific knowledge of today we ought to see an improvement which is beyond what we see among favored people, increase in stature, in vigor, in mental endowments because of their peculiarly favored circumstances.

Importance of Maternity.

"We do not know enough to perfect the human race, but we know enough to begin. We must consider the problem of sex.

"If the average woman is blessed with the maternal instinct, why should she not satisfy it? She is dependent on being able to marry a man, a man whom she may or may not love, a man who may or may not support her properly.

Children Must Be Considered.

"Is there any reason why a woman who longs to have children should not do so, regardless of the conventions of society? Yes, there are the children to be considered. What is our chief obligation? To care for the children. It would seem as if a woman who wants children, and who would tenderly care for them if she had them, ought to have them. That is her prerogative, and we ought to make the opportunities for young people to meet each other more frequent, so that proper unions may take place, and we ought to see that the children are provided with proper physical protection. As a matter of fact, no genuine mother minds laying down her life for her little child. That is a part of the great mystery of sex."

DEATH'S CURTAIN DOWN ON SARDOU.

Dean of French Playwrights Dies in Paris at 77 After Long Illness.

THEATER'S INCARNATION.

Every Land Has Laughed, Wept, Shuddered from Products of This Genius' Pen.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Victorien Sardou, who had been ill for a long time, died today from pulmonary congestion. He was the dean of French dramatists and a member of the French academy.

The man whose first play was hissed died rich and honored, with the proud title of France's greatest and most prolific contemporary dramatist.

He was the theater incarnate. He had its passion, fever, ardor, and genius. Everything he saw in life became for him immediately a dramatic scene.

Stays in Paris for Revenge.

He was a worker of prodigious patience, yet in one moment of desperation he resolved to leave Paris and seek his fortune in America. As he started from his lodgings for a train a great stone dropped from a builder's scaffold and killed a man beside him. Sardou said:

"If I were not killed it was because I ought to remain here. Paris owes me revenge."

Sardou was born in Paris in 1831. He started in life as a medical student and passed most of his time in writing plays which at that time were failures. Undismayed and believing in himself he struggled while waiting for the tide which was to lead him to fame and fortune.

First Comedy a Failure.

His first comedy, "La Taverne des Etudiants," was produced in 1854 in the Odeon, then the second state theater, but it proved a failure. He then wrote the comedy, "Scrap of Paper," which was produced with great success in 1860 and subsequently adapted for the English stage.

At the age of 75 Sardou witnessed the production of his latest drama, "L'Affaire des Poisons," at the Porte Ste. Martin theater. This play, which has to do with the infamous poisoning camarilla existing under the reign of Louis XIV. and which was presented for the first time on December 7, 1907, is still running to crowded houses.

In 1857 following many disappointments Sardou fell ill of typhoid fever. A kindly neighbor, Mlle. Brecourt, an actress, nursed him day and night and saved his life. Shortly after his recovery he married her and this was the turning point in his career.

Wife Dies at His Zenith.

Through his wife Sardou became acquainted with the celebrated De Jazet, who commissioned him to write two plays for her, both of which were successes. After nine years of happy married life and when he was at the zenith of his prosperity his wife died. In 1877 he married Mlle. A. Soulier and the same year was elected a member of the French academy.

Sardou's fame is due largely to his thorough knowledge of stage effects and his instincts in gauging the tastes of the playgoing public. His writing is so small that the printers have to place his copy under a magnifying glass to decipher it.

Won Society by Ridicule.

The number of his plays is legion. He ridiculed society, and society applauded. He wrote "Nos Intimes" ("Peril"), "Les Vieux Garçons," and "Séraphine," and, finally, "Divorçons," which has been played in almost every living language. Then he turned to a new vein, the historic; wrote "Théodora," from Byzantine annals; "La Haine," from old Italian chronicles; "La Duchesse d'Athènes," from records of Greece of the middle ages; "Patrie," a story of the rising of the Dutch gueux at the end of the sixteenth century; "Les Merveilleuses" and "Thermidor" about the revolution, "La Tosca" and "Mme. Sans-Gêne" on the imperial epoch of French history, and latterly the two plays which have so far been produced in English only, "Robespierre" and "Dante." Other well known plays are "Fedora," "Gismonda," and "Cleopatra."

"Robespierre" is considered his masterpiece, Clement Scott, the critic, styling it the summit of the drama building art. This play deals with the most striking part of the French revolution—the reign of terror.

Great Stage Folk in His Plays.

Almost every land knows the stage heroes and heroines born out of Sardou's resourceful mind. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has won her greatest triumphs in rôles he wrote for her, such as Tosca, Fedora, Théodora, and Gismonda.

"Mme. Sans-Gêne" was written for Mme. Rejane, in which she portrayed the outspoken, good hearted wife of Marshal Lefevre. It was translated into English and Sir Henry Irving and Miss Terry were seen in it at the Lyceum.

The great English actor also appeared in "Robespierre" and other products of the genius of the master Frenchman.

Dipped $1,000,000 from Ink Bottle.

Sardou was declared the only man who ever dipped $1,000,000 out of an ink bottle with a pen.

His exact fortune is not known, but as a majority of his plays have been successful his estate is known to be large. He had a splendid château at Marlyle-Roy. He was decorated with the Legion of Honor in 1863.

Sardou's death makes the sixth vacancy this year in the French academy, the total membership of which should be forty. All six chairs remain to be filled.

"Where I had dipped he had plunged, and that aim which I was expressing about then, to roam in the sun and air with vagabonds, to haunt the strange corners of cities, to know all the useless and improper and amusing people who are alone very much worth knowing, had been achieved by him."—Arthur Symons, in his Introduction to "My Life," the autobiography of

TAFT RESTS WELL AND ROUTS CARE.

President Elect at the Hot Springs of Virginia Picks Up Fast.

TIME FOR TARIFF TALK.

Public Questions Generally Kept to the Fore by Successive Callers.

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 8.—"I really did some great work at sleeping last night, and am already beginning to feel the tire disappear."

This was President Elect Taft's comment this afternoon as from the wide porch of his cottage among the trees he looked at the red sun slip behind the mountains over which lazily hung the blue smoke of many forest fires.

The Sunday quiet which Mr. Taft enjoyed today was in striking contrast to the days of turmoil he has gone through, and he gave himself up to rest.

Representative Joseph W. Gaines of West Virginia stopped here today and had a long talk with Mr. Taft. Mr. Gaines is on his way to Washington to attend the tariff hearings by the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, of which he is a member.

IS TAFT 26TH PRESIDENT?

Will William Howard Taft be the twenty-sixth, the twenty-seventh, or the thirty-fourth president of the United States when he is sworn in on March 4 next? It is a good chance for speculation by those who like such arguments.

The answer depends on how many times the speculator counts the holders of the office of president. In some lists Cleveland is counted twice and in others only once. This makes the difference.

Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, and Grant served two terms each, but each is counted only once in some lists of presidents. Lincoln was elected for two terms and served forty days of the second, but he is counted only once. McKinley served six months of his second term, but he is counted only once.

But some lists put Cleveland down as the twenty-second and twenty-fourth president, Benjamin Harrison, who beat him for a successive second term, being the twenty-third. If this is accepted then Theodore Roosevelt is the twenty-sixth president and William H. Taft will be the twenty-seventh.

Counting terms for which presidents were elected to office and the fractional terms served as president by men elected as vice presidents, Washington should be the first and second president, John Adams the third, Jefferson the fourth and fifth, Madison the sixth and seventh, Monroe the eighth and ninth, John Quincy Adams the tenth, Jackson the eleventh and twelfth, William H. Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce, and Buchanan the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth, Lincoln the twentieth and twenty-first, Grant the twenty-second and twenty-third, Hayes the twenty-fourth, Garfield the twenty-fifth, Arthur the twenty-sixth, Cleveland the twenty-seventh and twenty-ninth, Benjamin Harrison the twenty-eighth, McKinley the thirtieth and thirty-first, Roosevelt the thirty-second and thirty-third, and Taft the thirty-fourth.

TOM TAGGART FOR SENATOR

He and Kern Rivals for Seat from Indiana.

DEMOCRATS HAVE MAJORITY

Election Seats Legislature That Leaders Seek to Control.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 8.—John W. Kern, democracy's defeated candidate for the vice presidency, is not the only pebble on the senatorial beach. He announced his candidacy tonight. But there is another. He is no less a personage than Thomas Taggart. Their aspirations are to succeed James A. Hemenway, now member of the upper house of the federal legislative body from Indiana.

The Indiana legislature is democratic on joint ballot by a majority of 12.

Others Who Have Hopes.

Others mentioned as probable candidates are John E. Lamb of Terre Haute, who was in charge of democratic national headquarters at Chicago during the last campaign; State Senator L. Ert Slack, Benjamin E. Shively, and Edward Hoffman of Fort Wayne.

Showing of Official Returns.

The official vote of the candidates for state offices was completed tonight, but the result was arrived at outside of the secretary of state's office.

According to the official returns from all the counties and totaled unofficially the democratic candidate for governor, Thomas R. Marshall, and lieutenant governor, Frank J. Hall, and Robert J. Lotz, attorney general, were elected and the remainder of the republican state ticket was successful.

The official plurality for William H. Taft has not been totaled, but it is in the neighborhood of 10,000.

CHAFIN SEES WHISKY PARTY.

Prohibitionist Also Declares Liquor Interests Helped Republicans Last Week.

Eugene V. Chafin, recent candidate for the presidency on the prohibition ticket, declared last night in an address at the Washingtonian home that the two great political parties of the future would be "the temperance party and the whisky party." "In this last campaign it is evident," he declared, "that the liquor interests threw their strength to the republican party, and those among them hitherto associated with the democracy, refused to indorse the 'prince of peace' doctrine promulgated by Bryan."

BRYAN TO BE CHANCELLOR?

Says Report That He Will Be Successor of E. Benjamin Andrews Is News to Him.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—William J. Bryan for chancellor of the University of Nebraska was one of the reports circulated today in connection with the resignation of E. Benjamin Andrews. Mr. Bryan said the report was news to him and he had never thought of such a thing. Consequently there was nothing he could say. None of the regents of the university could be seen who would discuss the matter, and the suggestion was not taken seriously. All the regents are republicans.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS ATTACK ON THE TERMS OF JUDGES.

Demand for Payment of Music Bill Places Members of Burke's Organization in Embarrassing Position.

Some democrats thought they had discovered a "mare's nest" yesterday and began talking about how they intended to attack the terms of the judges of the Municipal court on the ground that they had been chosen at the recent election for longer terms than the constitution allows. To make it sound more plausible, they said the Bar association was backing them up.

This the officers of the Bar association denied. They had considered the point at the last election and decided there was nothing in it.

Section 32 of article VI. of the constitution, in creating judicial officers provides that "the terms of office of all such officers, where not otherwise prescribed in this article, shall be four years."

When the point was raised before the lawyers consulted held that "such officers" meant state's attorneys, court clerks, bailiffs, constables, etc., inasmuch as the terms of judges of all kinds, from the Supreme bench to justices of the peace, are specifically set forth. Also that if it did happen that the point was well taken it would not invalidate the election or destroy the court, but simply shorten the terms of the judges.

"The matter has been gone into before," said Chief Justice Olson, "and it was held that there was nothing to it."

BROADER SCOPE IS PLANNED IN PRIMARY FRAUD INQUIRY.

Indications Are That Investigation Under Direction of Special State's Attorney Loesch May Last All Winter.

An investigation of primary election frauds far more extensive than was planned originally was presaged yesterday by persons intimately connected with the work of Special State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch and his assistants.

With more witnesses already in sight than can be handled well by the grand jury which convenes tomorrow, the work has assumed such proportions that it may run all winter. The first thirty witnesses for the present grand jury have been summoned to appear in the office of Robert M. Buck, chief investigator, for preliminary examination tomorrow morning, and much expedition will be required in order to place their testimony before the jurors and still leave room for others whose turn will come later.

"The investigation is just getting started," said Mr. Buck last night. "It has developed beyond anyone's expectations. The four indictments already returned show that we are getting results. I am not at liberty to say what we expect to show to the present grand jury."

MORSE EATS WELL, THOUGH IN PRISON

Denied Society of Visitors on Sunday, He Smokes and Meditates.

WOMAN SOUGHT IN VAIN.

Mystery of Disappearance Baffles New York Police and North River Dredgers.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, Nov. 8.

Morse Eats Well in Prison.

Charles W. Morse, former banker and ice king, who is confined in the Tombs prison pending an appeal from his fifteen years' sentence, spent a quiet Sunday. He didn't express a desire to attend the regular Sunday service held in the prison and spent most of his day smoking. At other times he sat on the side of his couch with his face buried in his hands as though deep in thought. Not a single person, other than the keeper, spoke to him all day. On Sunday visitors are not permitted in the prison and even his counsel, Mr. Littlefield, was denied an audience with the prisoner.

"We show no favors here," said Warden Flynn. "Morse is no more to us than any other."

Members of Morse's family were told Saturday it would be useless for them to attempt to see him on Sunday, so none of them came.

The prisoner awakened at 7 o'clock and soon after was handed breakfast consisting of ham and eggs and coffee. After he had finished that he had a rarebit. He ate heartily and then smoked. At dinner time he had beef, potatoes, and bread. For a time he paced the narrow limits of his cell, but looked up as keepers passed the door. He had several papers, but did not manifest much interest in the news.

Woman's Disappearance a Mystery.

In an effort to find the body of Mrs. Julius Fleischmann dynamite has been exploded in the North river from Thirtieth to One Hundredth street. No one saw Mrs. Fleischmann leave home. She lived with her husband and two married sons and their wives near Central park in a large private house. She and her husband had resided in New York thirty years. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Fleischmann left her daughter-in-law to lie down in her bedroom. When her husband came home and sought her she was gone. Neither servants nor any household member had seen her go out. Hospitals have been visited; also the morgue. The police were notified and the harbor squad put to work. The mystery remains impenetrable. The missing woman is 60 years old, and the family is one of prominence.

Iron and Steel Traveling Man a Suicide.

Walworth H. Tappan of Louisville, Ky., blew his brains out tonight in the washroom of a hotel in Fifth avenue. The shot created great excitement. Despondency over a nervous affliction is given by his wife as the cause of suicide. Tappan, a few years ago, was in the iron and steel business. Three years ago he sold out and became attached to the traveling staff of the Chicago firm of Crane & Co., in the iron and steel business. The suicide was not caused by financial difficulties, as Tappan had recently made profitable investments, and his friends told the police that he had always received a large salary. He secured a long leave of absence from the firm with which he was connected and came here to undergo a course of treatment.

Horse Show Opening at Hand.

Society and the horse will come to the fore in New York this week. Tomorrow the horse show opens. Society has spent weeks preparing for the greatest of social events. The splendidly appointed stables in Madison Square garden, where the show is annually held, are filled with silken coated animals. The auction sale of boxes this year was below that of last year, but this was only in prices. The list of boxholders is almost as large. The directors of the National Horse Show association gave a luncheon tonight to about 200 guests. Cornelius Fellowes, president of the association, presided, and Patrick Francis Murphy made a happy speech.

ATTORNEYS IN GUNNESS CASE BEGIN WORK ON JURY TODAY.

State Will Quiz Veniremen as to Views on Inflicting Death Penalty and Opinion as to Death of Woman.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 8.—With the expectation that it will require nearly a week to select a jury to try Ray Lamphere for the murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness and her three children, attorneys will begin the examination of veniremen.

A motion to quash the indictments will be made by the defense. The arguments thereon will consume but a short time and then, if Judge Richter overrules the motion, both sides will be ready for the selection of the jury. In this examination two points will be dwelt on in particular by the state, whether the venireman has any scruples against inflicting the death penalty and whether he has formed an opinion as to the death of Mrs. Gunness.

Lamphere had but two visitors today, his sister, Mrs. H. L. Pinley, and her husband calling to discuss the coming trial with him.

An agreement has been reached between the attorneys that during the trial all witnesses be excluded from the courtroom.

FLEET AS AID IN JAPAN.

Missionaries' Success in Philippines Helped by Old Glory's Rule.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The members of the general committee on foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church distributed themselves throughout the city this forenoon.

The twenty-five bishops and several of the visiting ministers occupied the pulpits of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal church south.

The great meeting of the day was held in the Odeon theater at 3 p. m. The platform was filled with bishops, missionaries, and the ministers of St. Louis. Bishop J. M. Thoburn, missionary bishop of India, presided.

Many Mohammedans in Africa.

Bishop J. C. Hartzell of Africa spoke on Mohammedanism in Africa, which he declared was the greatest peril that country had.

"There are 50,000,000 Mohammedans in Africa," he said, "and they are making many converts among the heathen. The Methodist Episcopal church has commenced work in Algiers and Tunis. It is the first time the church has attempted direct work in seeking to convert Mohammedans to Christianity."

Bishop W. F. Oldham of southern Asia spoke on Burma, Singapore, and the Philippine islands. He said the extraordinary success of missionary work in the Philippines was due to the fact that the Stars and Stripes float over the islands.

Fleet an Aid to Christianity.

Bishop M. C. Harris, missionary bishop of Corea and Japan, spoke on Corea and Japan.

"I thank God," he said, "that we cannot elect a president of the United States who is not a missionary. The United States is a missionary and a Christian nation."

He said he believed the visit of the fleet to Japan had advanced Christianity in Japan ten years.

The Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard spoke on China. He said:

"Materially China is not a starving country, as many suppose. It is rich in resources. A recent article in an American magazine says the coal supply in America will be exhausted in 100 or at most 200 years. If this proves true ships will carry enough coal from China to America to last 10,000 years."

HOSPITAL FOR FOOTBALL TRIO.

Fierce Game in California Results in Wrenched Necks, Broken Legs, and Injuries to Spines.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Charles Knowles' neck was wrenched and his spine injured; Neil Hill's left leg was broken, and Arthur Priester's neck twisted, face cut, and body bruised in a football game yesterday.

The injured are Hollywood high school students. The game was with Pasadena high school. There were several others injured, but not seriously.

The fierce rivalry between the schools caused the prediction that some one would be injured and doctors were prepared for an emergency.

Football Cut Brings Lockjaw.

Yorkville, Ill., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Howard Smith, 12 years old, has lockjaw as the result of an injury received in a football game, and a physician said today the boy could not live. The game took place two weeks ago, and Smith in being thrown in a tackle was cut on the kneecap. Tetanus followed.

SESSION OF LEADING JEWS

American Jewish Committee Assembles in New York.

WORKS WITH RABBI MAGNES.

United Community Indorsed and Officers Chosen.

New York, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The American Jewish committee, composed of representatives from all the largest Jewish organizations in the country, met in second annual session at the Hotel Astor today. The occasion drew a representation of some thirty prominent men whose names have been associated with the activities of their race in a dozen cities of the east and middle west. The session was an important one, and continued with only slight intermission from 10 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening. The business of the committee was held behind closed doors, and only a brief statement of the nature of its deliberations was given out at the close of the afternoon.

According to this statement one of the subjects considered was the recently initiated United Jewish community of New York, an organization now in process of being welded together by Rabbi Magnes of Temple Emanuel and his associates.

New York Governing Body.

This governing body, as it is designed to be, of all Jewish activities in this city, was started in the way of organization at meetings held in Clinton hall on Oct. 10 and 11, over which Rabbi Magnes presided.

At today's meeting the action taken by Dr. Magnes and his co-workers was looked upon favorably and a committee of the national organization was ordered to confer with the temporary executive committee from the still partially unorganized New York body in order that the aims and methods of action of the New York communal society may be decided upon with the advice of the national committee.

Officers of the Committee.

The election of officers of the Jewish committee for the year 1908-'09 resulted in the following being chosen:

President—Judge Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia.

Vice presidents—Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago and Prof. J. H. Hollander of Baltimore.

Treasurer—Isaac W. Bernheim, Louisville.

Executive committee—Dr. Cyrus Adler, Philadelphia; Joseph H. Cohen, New York; Harry Cutler, Providence, R. I.; the Rev. Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, Chicago; Louis Marshall, New York; Jacob H. Schiff, New York; Isador Sobel, Erie, Pa.; Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Chicago.

OUR BATTLESHIPS.

Saturday's papers had what purported to be an "inside story" of the Newport conference of last summer on American naval construction. An account of the proceedings of the conference was given in McClure's for November. According to it the critics of the board on construction, which is responsible for the present battleships, won pretty much all along the line. According to the "inside story," which may be taken as a semi-official answer to the one in McClure's, the critics were sustained only as to a few points, which are, however, of some importance.

It is unnecessary to attempt to reconcile any discrepancies between the two stories. Manifestly the experts who met in conference did not uphold the violent, unmeasured criticism of the ships that made up Admiral Evans' fleet, which was published last January. According to Mr. Reuterdahl, they were not much better than old junk and quite unfit for battle. The public did not take the critic seriously, being aware of the fact that in every country which has a navy there is always some Jeremiah who asserts that naval affairs are being shockingly mismanaged.

But we cannot get along without criticism. Better that which goes too far than none at all. But for criticism the dead hand of routine would govern and mistakes would be repeated ad infinitum. The bureaucrats of the navy department, like bureaucrats everywhere, stand in need of an occasional hatcheling. The navy board on construction could have given the country battleships more nearly perfect than it has done. The men whose business it is to sail and fight the ships have pointed out errors in construction that will not be repeated in ships hereafter to be built.

The American people want a navy made up of the best possible fighting machines. The way to get them is to encourage fearless and intelligent criticism. There cannot be too much of it. Then let the experts sit in judgment on the critics, sustain them when right and ignore them when wrong.

THINK IT OVER CAREFULLY.

The United States Circuit court for this circuit has restrained temporarily the interstate commerce commission from enforcing its order reducing the freight rates between the Mississippi and the Missouri when applied to through transportation from the Atlantic coast. This matter was discussed at great length before the commission, but the commercial consequences of the order would be so serious and the effect of the general adoption of the principle on which the order is based would be so far reaching that the Circuit court has acted wisely in deciding that there shall be further discussion.

The order of the commission is in substance that goods shipped direct from New York to the Missouri river shall pay a lower rate of freight than they would if consigned to Chicago or St. Louis and then reshipped to the Missouri river. This would work to the disadvantage of the two cities. It would give to Missouri river cities an advantage they do not now possess. It would, as the Circuit court says, "disturb commercial conditions grown up through a long line of years on the basis of the present rates."

The railroads operating between Chicago and the Missouri river allege that the lower rates prescribed by the commission are unreasonably low. The Circuit court did not consider that question, nor need it be considered here. The court is interested in ascertaining whether the manifest advantage given by the order of the commission to the Missouri river cities is an undue advantage. Certainly this city would lose trade it has had for a generation and that the Missouri river cities never have had.

Whatever may be the final action of the Circuit court, the case will go ultimately to the Supreme court. That tribunal will have to decide whether a principle as to freight rates which would be revolutionary if generally applied shall be accepted. The principle may be sound, but it ought not to be approved until all the ins and outs of the subject shall have been gone into and the public thoroughly informed of the effect on commercial conditions. The theory the commission is working on may be the one the railroads should have acted on in the beginning, but they did not, and to require them to conform to it now would be a critical matter for the roads and many of the great commercial communities of the country.

AS IT WAS IN THE BEGINNING.

Despite Prof. Fritz Koch's alarm over the unnatural cleanliness of American children, it probably may be set down as a fact that in countless homes the young idea still is led reluctant to a tub of suds and warm water Saturday night and afterwards retires to bed disgusted with the unwelcome sensations of the once a week bath.

A more careful investigation would have proved to the Swiss instructor that William Jr. still fails to "get into the corners" when he makes the few perfunctory passes over his face with a wet cloth held to be indispensable as a preliminary to food, and that his inclination is to leave a well marked line back of his ears to separate discovered from unexplored territory.

The professor's observations have been too limited if his article on the "Conservation of Childhood" in a University of Chicago publication contains all the results of his inquiry into the relation of dirt to the great American child.

WILL THE DOCTORS HELP?

During 1907 there were 3,477 deaths from tuberculosis in Chicago. In the same period only 919 cases were reported by the physicians of the city.

It is a losing battle for the public health when such conditions are permitted to exist. The record of 1908 promises to be much better. The first half of 1908 showed 1,075 cases of this disease reported by physicians, as compared with 106 for the corresponding period of 1907. That is distinctly encouraging. But three people died of the disease to every one case reported even under these improved conditions.

Not a little of the blame must rest upon members of the medical profession. Their position sometimes is difficult. They are confronted on one hand by the plain provisions of law. On the other hand they are asked to respect the unwise sensitiveness of patients or the families of patients who cling to the notion that the disease is dishonorable. The same thing is true of other diseases than tuberculosis. The health officials mention cerebro-spinal fever, chickenpox, diphtheria, measles, mumps, membranous croup, erysipelas, puerperal fever, scarlet fever, smallpox, typhoid fever, whooping cough.

The department of health is doing a splendid work for Chicago. "So long as the community backs the department of health it can guarantee them against general epidemics" is the declaration of a recent bulletin of the "Chicago School of Sanitary Instruction." That title is worth noting, by the way. The late earl of Derby is quoted in the words "Sanitary instruction is even more important than sanitary legislation." The people undoubtedly need and will welcome instruction.

Just now, however, the question and the appeal is this: Will the physicians help?

THE ARMY OF BEGGARS.

"Some in rags, some in tags, and some in velvet gowns" was said of the beggars when they came to town.

The frazzled variety sometimes spend their summers in the country. They "come to town" when the winter's blasts begin to blow. The published announcement that all such comers will be sent to jail may possibly be effective in reducing the army which captures Chicago each winter. On the other hand, it may prove welcome tidings to those who are seeking a good warm room with board during the inclement season when barn and haystack are cheerless.

The type "in velvet gowns" does not care to visit the provinces. There is too good "picking" within the city's walls. The famous saying of the Connecticut showman finds apt illustration every day. The people like to be humbugged. It is not easy to resist the mute appeal of the blind man as he holds out his tin cup for the alms of the passing sympathizer. The charity of the offered gift may well be questioned, however, when it is known that the supposed sightless sufferer has a fat roll of bills in his pocket and a rent roll besides.

The letter writing lady in distress is sure to discover many who will come to her aid. Chagrin takes the place of chivalry when it is discovered that the gifted correspondent enjoys all the comforts of life in a well furnished apartment. The official directory—the beggar's blue book—is now said to contain the names of 200 undeserving people who flourish upon the misguided "charity" of Chicago givers. It would prove a real benefaction if this roll of fraud were to be given wide circulation throughout the city.

There are many genuine cases of distress in every large city. There are deserving men, women, and children in Chicago who ought to have the help of the more fortunate. "Lend a hand" is a good motto. But the path of wisdom in giving is that which leads to the organizations which have been formed for the supervision of charities. The frauds, the fakers, and the beggars "in velvet gowns" fight shy of organized charity. No better reason than this could be found to convince people who want to help suffering humanity that money for relief should be given mainly through the societies which investigate the facts in each case. And Chicago is well supplied with effective machinery of this sort.

GENERAL ELECTIONS AND LOCAL ISSUES.

The judges elect of the Municipal court are all republicans. Not a democratic candidate came within 30,000 of securing enough votes to win. The result, in some aspects, is unfortunate. Not because the republicans chosen are not well qualified for their responsible duties but because the Municipal bench should be absolutely nonpartisan. There are distinct advantages in an elective judiciary. Yet the most satisfactory condition of affairs will not be realized until voters who choose judges forget party in their strong desire to select the best possible men. So far as the Municipal court is concerned it would be an improvement if the judges were elected at a time when no other matters were being considered by the voters.

The assumption is that the republican judicial candidates were carried to victory upon the Taft tide. That notion may be wrong. The voters may have used discrimination after all. It is at least interesting that the highest vote was given to Judge Fake, whom the slatemakers before the primaries tried to defeat. There are a good many evidences that voters were not carried away by blind party zeal. Minnesota, Indiana, and Ohio results tell a story of independent thought. Each elected a democratic governor, and yet placed its electoral vote in the Taft column. The gubernatorial contests in Illinois and New York bear testimony to the same thing. In many minor instances throughout the union a similar use of individual judgment is noted.

There is little doubt that there is a steady development of intelligence in voting. Yet the demand for the divorce of local elections from national is well based. Many of the offices should be independent of party. If their incumbency were a matter of thoughtful consideration, apart from connection with larger issues, better results might be obtained.

The reaction of opinion is notable. It has not been long since there was a call for fewer elections. "Let's do it all at once and have all the political excitement over in short order" was the cry. The result was the great blanket ballot, the impossibility of sifting candidates, and the temptation to "vote it straight."

Opportunity.

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.
Wail not for precious chances passed away,
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I burn the records of the day,
At sunrise every soul is born again.
Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.
Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep,
I lend my arm to all who say: "I can."
No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep
But he might rise and be again a man.

King Edward enters today upon his sixty-eighth year, and will, in accordance with his invariable custom, celebrate the event at Sandringham, surrounded by a house party of his oldest and most intimate friends, the membership of which is pretty well the same each year, usually including Consuelo, duchess of Manchester; the marquis de Soveral, minister of Portugal; and Count Albert Mensdorff-Pouilly, who besides being Austrian ambassador is, through his Saxe-Coburg grandmother, a cousin of the king, having moreover been a godson of the late prince consort.

The count's father was the prince consort's closest friend, both prior and subsequent to his marriage to Queen Victoria, and his name frequently appears in the published life of the prince as having been the traveling companion of the latter in a tour through Italy and other southern parts of Europe in the year before he became in Chapel Royal, St. James', London, the husband of the queen of England.

The celebration of King Edward's birthday in November at Sandringham is always of a rather private character in which everything is done to emphasize the fact that it is essentially a family affair. For the official celebration of the king's birthday has already taken place last June, on which occasion there were all sorts of state banquets, military and naval pageants, gunfire salutes, and illuminations, not alone in England but in every part of the British empire.

◆

This practice of having two birthdays each year is a royal prerogative which King Edward is alone to enjoy. It arises from the fact that in the month of November, which is the month of his birth, most people are away from town, scattered in the various country houses for the shooting season.

This was even more the case in the earlier years of his reign than it is today, and it is possibly due to the eastern imbroglio that for the first time in nearly a decade parliament finds itself in session at this time of the autumn, this, of course, necessitating the presence of the members of the cabinet and of the leaders of the opposition in London.

As a rule they are always away in the fall and parliament stands adjourned and that is why the official celebration of the king's birthday is always celebrated at the height of the London season in June.

Queen Victoria's birthday was often celebrated on a Saturday, but King Edward, from motives of consideration for the religious scruples of his Jewish subjects, among whom he counts so many warm friends, and who observe Saturday as their Sabbath, has made a point to avoid the official celebration of his birthday on the Hebrew day of rest and has likewise been careful, since he became king, to avoid holding any courts, levees, and analogous state functions at Buckingham palace and at St. James' on the seventh day of the week.

◆

It is a purely fortuitous circumstance that Nov. 9 should be not only the actual anniversary of the birth of King Edward but likewise the day of the inauguration of the lord mayor of London into his ancient office, which dates back to the times of King Alfred the Great. For the chief magistrates of the British metropolis were inaugurated on Nov. 9 long before the birth of King Edward.

It is in connection with this civic celebration, rather than with that of the king's birthday, that the city of London will be en fête today. The new lord mayor will drive in state with much old fashioned pageantry to the law courts, at the entrance of the city, where the old Temple Bar gate used to stand, and where the oath of office will be administered to him by the lord chief justice of the realm.

He will be accompanied by his predecessor in office and there have been times when the outgoing lord mayor, who in one way or another had incurred the ill will of the citizens, has been made the object of a hostile demonstration on the part of the populace on these occasions, his state coach and four having been not only hooted but even pelted with mud, offal, and brickbats in the procession to the law courts and back to the Mansion house.

◆

Tonight the annual lord mayor's banquet will take place at the Guildhall, when the new lord mayor will entertain in state the prime minister, the members of the cabinet, the lord high chancellor, and the judiciary, the foreign ambassadors, and the principal dignitaries of the realm, everybody being in full uniform.

The government invariably avails itself of the opportunity presented by the lord mayor's banquet to make public some weighty pronouncement of its views and intentions with regard to domestic policies and international affairs in the form of an after dinner speech by the premier, or by some important member of the cabinet whom he may delegate to act as the mouthpiece of the administration on this occasion.

Some of the most impressive warnings to foreign powers have been given by English prime ministers and colleagues at these inaugural banquets of the lord mayor, and that is why the newspapers tomorrow will be perused with more than ordinary interest, in order to ascertain what Premier Asquith or Sir Edward Grey may have had to say on the subject of the present imbroglio in connection with the eastern question and Morocco.

◆

Lord Edward Seymour, whose extraordinary escape from drowning off Bembridge in the Isle of Wight has attracted so much attention, is a younger brother of the earl of Yarmouth, and third in the line of succession to the marquisate of Hertford.

It seems that while Lord Edward, who served throughout the Boer war with distinction, and who is a splendid swimmer, was floating on his back at a considerable distance from shore, a floating bank of seaweed suddenly rose up to the surface of the sea around him in such a manner as to prevent his making a single movement without getting himself hopelessly entangled.

He retained sufficient presence of mind to remain perfectly still and to refrain from even the faintest attempt of a struggle, which could only have had a fatal issue. For five minutes he remained thus, not knowing what moment the seaweed might envelop him in its slimy, sinuous coils. And then the floating bed of weeds sank away from him as suddenly as it had risen, leaving his nerves so shaken that he experienced considerable difficulty in swimming back to shore.

Now, although this experience of Lord Edward Seymour seems to be regarded in England as altogether unique, and as wonderful in a quite uncanny degree, yet it is by no means an uncommon phenomenon along the storm bound, rocky coast of Brittany, and it is a curious coincidence that the adventure which so recently befell him is described almost word for word as having happened to the hero of "The Cradle of the Rose," the latest novel of the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress."

The weed in fact plays a tragic part in the story, which will be understood when it is mentioned that the author, a Bretonne, born and bred on the coast of Armorica, has more than once been present when people who had been reported missing were cast up on the beach enveloped in shrouds of seaweed.

On the coast of Brittany, and I believe also on the Atlantic seaboard of the southern states of this country, great storms occasionally tear loose huge banks of seaweed from their rocky bed under the ocean, to rise suddenly, and without warning, to the surface, enveloping swimmers in their toils, then dragging them down once more to the bottom of the sea.

So strange is the action of the weed, which sometimes, as in the case of Lord Seymour, merely threatens, leaving the object of its attack unharmed, coiling and uncoiling itself around his limbs, that one would almost imagine it to be endowed with life, like some octopus or other marine monstrosity.

But the danger is so well known on the Breton coast that the seafaring population there, especially the sardine fishermen, make a point of never learning swimming, declaring that if one knows how to swim one is tempted to struggle in the embrace of the weed and thus to either eliminate all chances of escape, or in the event of a fatal issue to prolong the agony.

CUTTING OF THE DENEEN VOTE.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I wish to commend the editorial characterization of "the campaign of the Lorimer-Sullivan coalition" as of a nature so abhorrent and odious that "in its most obvious aspect" the result should be regarded "a credit to Mr. Deneen, not a discredit."

On the other hand, I take issue with the statement that "it is probable the difference between the two pluralities [Taft's and Deneen's] does not illustrate it [the cutting of Deneen by republican voters] completely, it being known that many democrats voted for Bryan but refused to vote for Stevenson, because of Roger C. Sullivan."

Surely any anti-Deneen voter who was not also pro-Stevenson failed to realize the prime motive of the leading malcontents was malicious hatred and personal spite. Moreover, according to your tabulated revised returns in the same issue, Stevenson's lead over Bryan exceeds Taft's lead over Deneen by 6,686, and I think it will not be claimed that many anti-Deneen republicans refused for any reason to vote for Taft. How is Stevenson's great lead over Bryan to be explained except upon the theory that "the difference between the pluralities" does even more than completely illustrate the cutting of Deneen?

THANKS THE TRIBUNE FOR ITS EFFORTS.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Taft, Deneen, Uncle Joe Cannon, and the entire ticket have won out. Everybody should thank their stars for this. The Tribune can well claim a portion of the enjoyment and happiness which this victory has brought about. The Tribune was the only reliable republican paper in the whole city. There did not appear to be any sore spots on its head or anywhere, but all through the fight it stood manfully upholding republican principles and stood by the candidates nominated at conventions. Please accept many thanks for the labor you have done in aid of good government, happiness, and prosperity.

DEMANDS ON REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have voted the republican ticket for the last thirty years. Now let me say a word as to what I want from the party or I'll feel like bolting in 1912. It had better put lumber on the free list, revise the tariff thoroughly, give us the postal savings bank, uphold the Roosevelt policies from A to Z. Also just a word to Charles S. Deneen. He should not overlook the fact that the downstate people nominated him and elected him, not Cook county.

PUBLICATION PROMISED THIS WEEK.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Pursuant to promises made by President Roosevelt and Judge Taft before the election, I have watched the Chicago press for three days for the publication of the campaign contributions. Come, where is it? Have asked half a dozen of my friends if they have seen any such publication, but all are in the same boat. Remember what we were promised. Look at Mr. Taft's big plurality. Give us the facts. Who contributed and how much did they give?

WANTS WOMEN TO SAVE THE COUNTRY.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The United States becoming "Russianized" with "the consent of the people." This is the opinion of many of our most thoughtful students of political history.

The result of the election is proof conclusive that the republican party is right in its implied sentiment that the laboring men are not true to themselves and need "rulers" and "guardians" to look after their economic and political welfare. The laboring men need a "boss," and George Ade never spoke more truly than when he said, "If you step on a chocolate drop you crush and hurt it, but it sticks to you." The p-e-o-p-l-e always did crucify their saviors.

The next political cry should be, "Call out the reserves!" and the reserves are the women of our country. But half of our citizens voted on Nov. 3. The result, without question, would have been different if the women were not disfranchised; consequently the mothers of our voters are not responsible for the Russianization of the United States.

SOMETHING WRONG SOMEWHERE.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A distressing case came under my notice the other day in Wabash avenue. An old and ill conditioned horse attached to a junk wagon fell, cutting his mouth and knees so that they bled badly. After getting to his feet he attempted to stagger on, but at the request of numerous bystanders a policeman refused to allow the driver to proceed. The policeman went to the nearest telephone booth to call up the Humane society. After waiting a long interval he went again to telephone, and in his absence a mounted policeman appeared and ordered the miserable outfit to move on, which it did after standing nearly three hours in the cold.

It is to be hoped that the wretched animal died upon reaching his stable, for as far as could be learned from the officer in charge there was no record made of the case.

I am under the impression that the mounted police have special instructions in regard to cases of this nature, also that a humane officer might have been on the spot within the hour.

LAW KNOCKED OUT BY SUPREME COURT.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—On Saturday, Oct. 31, I mailed a check to the Garrick theater for two seats for matinée, Wednesday, Nov. 4. The usual custom of mailing the seats was not carried out for some reason. On asking for my seats at 2 p. m. on Wednesday, the man in the box office took two seats from the rack, put them into an envelope, and handed them to me. I discovered they were in the twelfth row. A woman just ahead of me had bought two seats in the seventh row, which the man said had just been turned in, but he did not say by a speculator. I protested against his selling those seats to her when my order was in since Saturday. I was told I could have my money back, but no other seats.

Where is the bill against ticket speculation that was agitated some time ago? Is there not some way to make the managers stop this sort of thing and give their patrons a square deal?

POSSIBLY NOT CHICAGO WOMEN.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I attended the lecture given by the University Lecture association Friday afternoon at Music hall, Fine Arts building, by William Lyon Phelps, Ph. D., of Yale university. The lecture was enjoyable, but my attention was distracted by three pairs of women's feet resting on the railing of the gallery. At least two out of the three pairs must have confirmed Prof. Phelps in the belief that the slur on the size of Chicago feet was no fiction. Kindly use your influence with the management to have placards placed stating that this custom must be abandoned for the honor of Chicago.

Must Strive for Liberty.

What you call liberty, I call liberties; and what I call the struggle for liberty is nothing but the constant living assimilation of the idea of freedom. He who possesses liberty otherwise than as a thing to be striven for, possesses it dead and soulless; for the idea of liberty has undoubtedly this characteristic, that it develops steadily during its assimilation. So that a man who stops in the midst of the struggle and says, "Now I have it!" thereby shows that he has lost it.—Ibsen.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Two Notable Concerts.

Two concerts of true artistic worth, two singers of world wide reputation, two gowns of exceptional effectiveness—all this in two days. Verily a wealth, if not an embarrassment, of good things. Mme. Fremstad came forward on Saturday afternoon in Orchestra hall and delighted with her admirable singing an audience of incredibly small proportions. Mme. Gadski appeared yesterday in the same concert room, and with a song recital of highest excellence held captive an audience which left no places vacant in the auditorium.

Mme. Fremstad was garbed in a "creation" of black and gold which in its clinginess and general glitter seemed especially designed to befit the first presenting in Chicago of the finale from Richard Strauss' "Salome." Mme. Gadski came forward arrayed in the splendor of the deep coral colored, gold embroidered robe and Tyrian purple mantle which created such a sensation when flashed upon audiences in the east. Both of the famous prime donne were at their loveliest so far as appearance was concerned, and the audience therefore had delight of the eye as well as of the ear.

Saturday was the first time Mme. Fremstad had been heard here in anything approximating recital work, her appearances last season with the orchestra having brought her forward in operatic excerpt chiefly. The impression left by her singing of a single group of songs on Saturday was so distinctly favorable that the possibility of having her here later in the season in an entire program of such compositions is anticipated with true pleasure.

Anything more charming than her delivery of the three Grieg songs she sang could not be desired, and in the Rubinstein "Es blinkt der Thau" and the Schumann "Frühlingsnacht" she disclosed possession of full understanding of the import of German lieder interpretation and thorough mastery of the technic of that fine and difficult art. Earlier in the program she sang the aria of Agatha from "Der Freischütz" and with a tonal chastity and a refinement of style that spoke in highest commendation of her admirable vocal training and of the purity and sincerity of her artistic insight and understanding. It was a performance to remember with pleasure and gratitude.

At the end of the program she gave the excerpt from "Salome" with which the Strauss music drama ends. It is understood that Strauss himself had had some hand in preparing the piano arrangement of the accompaniment, and that he approved of the use of the number in concert. It is music that forms a fitting setting for the text. Anything more degenerate in its moral tone and its emotional content, more repulsive in subject matter, idea, and action, than is this climax of the Wilde drama is scarcely to be found in literature.

It reeks with sensuality and animalistic craving of the most unhealthy and abnormal sort, and there is nothing of beauty or sanity to lend it excuse. The Strauss music reflects all of this—it not only reflects it but emphasizes and intensifies it, making its sensuality even more insidious and dangerous, its degeneracy even deeper and more repugnant.

To accomplish this undoubtedly was Strauss' aim and desire. He has accomplished it fully and wonderfully. Whether he has ennobled art by the process is an entirely different question. He probably would say that he had no such purpose. It is music that is all color and unhealthy passion—music intensely difficult to sing or play, ungrateful for all performers engaged, and useful to the listener only if to have nerves set tingling, the soul dragged into the depths, and the mind smutted be useful.

◆

Mme. Fremstad gave the great scene marvelously. The wondrous richness and warmth of her voice, her ability to color the tone so as to express sensuality and passionate desire, and her exceptional command of the resources of her voice all tended to make her presentment of the fiendishly tricky music notable. She held her hearers spellbound and fascinated, and both she and Mr. Obendorfer, who performed the impossible piano part, were recalled repeatedly, as they deserved to be.

Associated with Mme. Fremstad on the program was Cecil Fanning, a young baritone who, despite the fact that the selections he offered included a number of songs which were wholly out of place in a serious concert, proved himself the possessor of a light baritone which is agreeable and useful.

He exaggerates the use of the nasal resonance in the tone, but the voice has sweetness and considerable power, carries well, and the diction is so clear and exact that every word is easily intelligible.

He is clearly a young singer of promise and needs only further experience in work of better grade to make a place for himself.

◆

Yesterday afternoon Mme. Gadski and Mr. La Forge gave one of their song recitals and left the large audience indebted to them for two hours of pure pleasure of the truest artistic quality. The program was a model of what a recital program should be, consisting as it did of a large group of Schubert lieder, a similar group by Franz, three songs by Grieg, two by La Forge, and two by Strauss.

It was easily the finest list Mme. Gadski ever has offered here, and her delivery of it was superior to anything she previously has done—a commendation which is of the highest, since the past contains record of noble achievements by her. Rarely has her voice sounded as clear, as pure, and as true as it did yesterday, never has her command of its every resource been more complete and exact.

Vocally it was an afternoon of unalloyed joy, and interpretatively it left nothing to be desired. Each of the numbers could in turn be taken for praise, but it suffices that the high moments in an afternoon of beautiful singing were found in the Schubert "Nacht und Träume," "Litanei," and "Die Junge Nonne," the Franz "Wonne der Wehmuth," and the trying "Lotosblume," Grieg's exquisite "Mutterschmerz," Strauss' "Die Nacht," and the "Lass with the Delicate Air" given as one of the encores.

These were each and all of exceptional beauty, no matter in what light they were viewed, and the audience was not dilatory in displaying its approval and gratitude. At the end of the concert the usual extras were demanded and resulted in the regulation double repetitions of "The Year's at the Spring" and "Ho-yo-to-ho," from "Walküre," abnormalities which it had been hoped Mme. Gadski would have succeeded in doing away with this season. They are unworthy of her and her art.

◆

Two songs by Mr. La Forge, "Expectancy" and "Spring's Awakening," showed the latest manifestation of the young composer's talent—a talent that is developing and strengthening admirably. There was the customary enactment of the little "Man and Superman" comedy after each of the numbers, the bows by the man at the nod of the superman and the repetitions of both of the selections.

Mr. La Forge, in addition to his exceptional accompaniments—they have not an equal—played the F sharp Nocturne and C sharp minor Scherzo of Chopin as well as three encores.

His solo work has improved noticeably since last he played here. He seems to be finding himself, and the tonal beauty which marks his accompanying and which heretofore has been strangely wanting in his solo playing was yesterday gratifyingly in evidence. It, associated with his musicianship, made his contributions to the program worthy and a source of pleasure.

INQUIRY BEGINS TODAY INTO CHARGES AGAINST A JURIST.

Bar Association of Washington State Takes Up Alleged Attempt to Bribe Member of Supreme Court.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Investigation into the charges of an alleged attempt to bribe Judge Milo Root, associate justice of the Washington Supreme court, will begin tomorrow. Chief Justice Hadley has placed the whole matter before President Bridges of the state bar association. Judge Root himself demanded that an investigation be made.

The action of the bar association follows publication of a story connecting Judge Root with the $70,000 shortage of former Chief Justice M. J. Gordon, who recently resigned as chief counsel in this state for the Great Northern railroad.

Since the matter of the shortage became public and following the announcement of General Counsel Begg of the Great Northern that there would be no prosecution of Mr. Gordon, friends of the latter have circulated the story that he holds letters from some of his superiors authorizing the use of the money in influencing decisions of the Supreme court in tax cases in which the Great Northern was interested, and that the money was paid to Judge Root to secure the decision desired.

FIGHT AGAINST GOMPERS TO STIR DENVER CONVENTION.

Opponents of Federation President Will Seek to Defeat Him Because of Recent Political Activity.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 8.—The twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will begin in this city tomorrow, it is predicted, will be the most important convention of that body in its history. The all important question to be discussed is the indorsement of the political program carried out by the executive council during the recent political campaign, and which has generally been referred to as Mr. Gompers' plan.

Opponents of President Gompers are working to organize a plan against his reëlection. They are charging him with "pernicious political activity" and using other arguments to convince delegates that Gompers has lost his standing as a leader of workingmen.

Among those who are expected to lead the fight on the federation's president is Daniel Keefe of the Longshoremen's union, who was charged with deserting the federation's legislative committee and coming out for Taft.

BRYAN'S CHILD SHUNS DIVORCE.

Mrs. Leavitt Reported Content to Be Wife in Name Only if Artist Stays Away.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—"Divorce courts are a horror to me, and my father, mother, and all the family are utterly opposed to divorce on principle."

This was the substance of a letter written by Ruth Bryan Leavitt to an intimate friend in Denver. Reports are that she will seek separation from Artist Homer Leavitt, who is reported in Paris.

Mrs. Leavitt, it is stated, will never live with her husband again, but is content to be wife in name so long as her husband remains away.

In the last two years she has been engaged in literary work, writing little plays and short stories. She is said to be now writing a play for Mary Mannering.

BABY A GIRL; FATHER LEAVES.

One Night in Jail Overcomes Disappointment of Indiana Parent's Hopes for a Boy.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Pearl Robertson, after spending a night in jail charged with wife desertion, was released on his promise to return home. He left, his wife says, because a child born to them was a girl and not a boy. Robertson confirmed the wife's statement.

AUTHORITY ON SOUTH AFRICA SHOWS ROUTE OF PRESIDENT.

Sir Harry Johnston Presents Views of Jungle and Tells of Tribes in Address to Geographic Society.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—Sir Harry Johnston, a noted author and English administrator in South Africa, gave a graphic description of the route President Roosevelt probably will take on his African hunting trip in an address before the National Geographic society last night.

The speaker, who has been entertained by the president and discussed with him the hunt, is regarded as one of the greatest authorities on Central African exploration.

Sir Harry said if the president landed at Mombasa he would be among the Lamu tribe, whose members are as black as other tribes of Africa. The lecturer disclaimed any authority to speak for the president as to where his wanderings would lead, but showed an inland route to the hunting grounds from Mombasa that the president will certainly have to follow if he is to get the richest experiences.

With the aid of superb views, Sir Harry described scenes at the old Portuguese fort at Mombasa and told of the Somali warriors and maidens in quaint costumes. The trail leads inward through a rough grass country with ant hills resembling stumps of telegraph poles.

Other pictures showed the Masai and Galla tribe, farther inland, and it was explained that one part of this bloodthirsty race had completely wiped out its less warlike members. Other striking views were given of the bamboo forests, gigantic grasses, and tangled rubber forests.

Several views were shown of the Rift valley and its remarkable chain of lakes. Sir Harry explained the probable geologic fault which accounted for this great depression, and said probably Madagascar was split off from the African continent by a similar but more pronounced settling of the earth.

OIL KING'S PASTOR RESIGNS.

The Rev. Dr. Eaton Quits Cleveland Church, Accepting a Call to New York.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Charles Aubrey Eaton, for seven years pastor of Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, today resigned to accept a call to Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York City. Dr. Eaton sent his resignation from the east, where he has been for some weeks recovering from a recent illness. He says in his letter of resignation that he believes the New York pastorate will give him a better opportunity to carry out church plans.

It is understood that his salary is to be $12,000 a year. He will take with him his assistant pastor and his church secretary.

Dr. Eaton has been the Rockefeller pastor in this city, the oil king being a stanch supporter of the Euclid Avenue church. In fact, it was Mr. Rockefeller who got the Rev. Dr. Eaton to come here from Toronto seven years ago.

KERMIT SOLID WITH SAILORS.

President's Son, Now a Harvard Freshman, Permanently Assigned to Charlestown Haven Work.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Kermit Roosevelt, second son of the president, a freshman at Harvard, was one of the other collegians to volunteer to assist in entertaining seamen at the sailors' haven, Charlestown. He has been assigned, among other duties, to stand at the door when the sailors enter and usher them to their seats. Since taking up this work Kermit has been quoted as saying:

"I believe every man in college should go into charitable work, or something of that nature, no matter how busy he may be."

At the opening of the term young Roosevelt was invited by his classmate, R. Clifford, nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, to help out at the haven some night when one of the Episcopal societies should be in charge of the exercises. He accepted, was introduced to Supt. King, talked with the sailors, played chess and checkers with them, and made himself a good fellow generally. Kermit went to the haven three times, and then was asked by the superintendent to become a regular member of the collegiate auxiliary staff.

Exercises for Cold Feet.

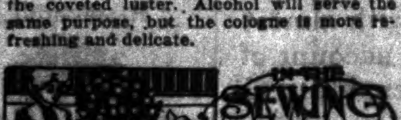
Cold feet indicate a defective circulation, and relief will never be found until the circulation is improved. You may apply hot water bags and wear bed slippers, but the relief will only be temporary for these "cures" do not remove the cause.

Ankle exercises will improve the circulation of the feet wonderfully. When sitting in a chair stretch the foot out, extending the toes to the extreme limit. Then rotate the foot up and down sideways and around in a circle. Then stand, supporting yourself by a table or chair, and with one foot slightly raised make it hang lifeless; in other words, devitalize it. With a circular movement of the lower part of the limb swing the foot around many times. Exercise both feet in the same way. When you have stopped the exercise you will feel a peculiar, tingling sensation in the feet. This is the blood rushing back to them. Almost at once you will feel a comfortable sense of warmth that will be different from any feeling of warmth obtained by the use of hot water bags.

* *

Alcohol for Throat.

To obtain the luster of polished marble, which is so admired on throat and shoulders displayed by a décolleté gown, do not use powder, as this will surely show. Instead, give the neck and shoulders a warm, almost hot, bath, and while the skin is in a moistened and fresh condition sponge the neck and shoulders with clear cologne water. The cologne will enter into the pores and will make the shoulders appear white and with the coveted luster. Alcohol will serve the same purpose, but the cologne is more refreshing and delicate.



Good Hints in Fitting Waists.

The most important points to remember when fitting a waist are the bust measure, neck, armhole, and length of front. Start with as small an armhole as possible and do not trim it to the required size until the shoulders and underarm seams have been adjusted. A small armhole gives a longer line to the underarm body and insures a better fitting waist throughout. If the waist is too tight across the shoulders or bust, do not think to bring comfort by cutting the armhole larger, for this is a great mistake. If the armhole is cut too large, the waist will pull out every time the arm is raised and the waist will constantly have an untidy appearance.

Straight collar bands always fit the best except for stout women and for them it is sometimes advisable to have a curved collar band. The collar should be trimmed out to fit the base of the neck snugly, but not tightly. It is a great mistake to cut the neck out too large, for this will give a thick, awkward appearance that is unbecoming, and aside from this it will be almost impossible to fit a collar nicely over a collar band which is so much too large.

* *

Adjusting Gathers.

In adjusting the gathers of a garment or ruffle they should be drawn up between the thumb and first finger and stroked into position with the needle. If the gathered edge is to be joined to a straight edge it may be neatly accomplished by whipping.

TESTED RECIPES

Chicken.

JELLIED CHICKEN.—Boil a fowl until it will slip easily from the bones; let the water be reduced to about one pint in boiling; pick the meat from the bones in good sized pieces, taking out all gristle, fat, and bones; place in a wet mold; skim the fat from the liquor; a little butter, pepper, and salt to taste, and one-half ounce of gelatin. When this dissolves pour it hot over the chicken. The liquor must be seasoned pretty highly, for the chicken absorbs.

CHICKEN PATTIES.—Mince chicken that has been previously roasted or boiled and season well; stir into this a sauce made of half a pint of milk, into which while boiling a teaspoonful of cornstarch has been added to thicken; season with butter, about a teaspoonful, and salt and pepper to taste. Have ready small patty pans lined with a good puff paste. Bake the crust in a brisk oven; then fill the pans and set in the oven a few minutes to brown slightly.

CHICKEN POT PIE.—Skin and cut the fowls into joints, and put the neck, legs, and backbones in a stew pan, with a little water, an onion, a bunch of savory herbs, and a blade of mace; let these stew for an hour, and, when done, strain off the liquor. This is for gravy. Put a layer of fowl at the bottom of a pie dish, then a layer of ham, then one of force meat and hard boiled eggs cut in rings; between the layers put a seasoning of pounded mace, nutmeg, pepper, and salt. Pour in about half a pint of water, border the edge of dish with pie crust, put on the cover, ornament the top and glaze it by brushing over it the yolk of an egg. Bake for about an hour and a half, and, when done, pour in at the top the gravy made from the bones.

DRESSING.—Rub the yolks of two hard boiled eggs to a smooth paste, with a dessertspoonful of salad oil, or melted butter; add to it two teaspoonfuls of made mustard and a small teaspoonful of fine white sugar, and put to it gradually (stirring it in) a large cup of strong vinegar. Make a wreath of the most delicate leaves of the celery around the edge of the dish, between it and the chicken; pour the dressing over the chicken when ready to serve; if the dressing is poured over too soon it will discolor the celery. White lettuce heads may be used for the nest instead of celery.

Tomatoes.

STUFFED TOMATOES.—Twelve large, smooth tomatoes, one teaspoon of salt, a little pepper, one tablespoonful of butter, one of sugar, one cupful of bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of onion juice. Arrange the tomatoes in a baking pan. Cut a thin slice from the smooth end of each. With a small spoon scoop out as much of the pulp and juice as possible without injuring the shape. When all have been treated in this way, mix the pulp and juice with the other ingredients and fill the tomatoes with this mixture. Put on the tops and bake slowly three-quarters of an hour. Slide the cake turner under the tomatoes and lift gently on to a flat dish. Garnish with parsley and serve.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES.—Turn nearly all the juice off from a can of tomatoes. Salt and pepper this, by the way, and put aside in a cool place for some other day's soup. Put a layer of bread crumbs in the bottom of a buttered pie dish, on them one of the tomatoes, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and some bits of butter, also a little sugar. Another layer of crumbs, another of tomatoes, seasoned, then a layer of fine dry crumbs. Bake covered until bubbling hot and brown quickly.

RELIGION AND POLITICS ONE

Benjamin Ide Wheeler's Interpretation of Christianity.

SAYS IT MEANS NORMAL LIFE

And That, in America, is Synonym for Interest in Affairs.

Christianity and religion were given a modern interpretation by President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California, who spoke last night at the Chicago Sunday Evening club's meeting in Orchestra hall. His subject was "What Is Christianity?"

The speaker answered his own question by stating that religion today largely is a matter of patriotism and that Christianity is to do one's duty politically in city, state, and nation. He exhorted his hearers to take part in the common life of the nation.

"To serve God, to do the public task, and to live so that the city and community shall be a little better for your having lived—that is Christianity.

Citizens Made for Politics.

"Are you afraid of politics? Why, politics is what American citizens were made for. When you neglect that you neglect your birthright. Aye, it is to sell your birthright for a mess of pottage.

"It is the attitude of spirit that counts in religion. Nobody is going to be saved by the Christ of nineteen centuries ago. It is the Christ here and now in human hearts that saves. How did you learn that sacrifice is good? From your mother, who sacrificed her health and comfort for you.

"The greatest joy comes only through sacrifice. There is nothing in 'getting back' at a person. A joy and peace of mind comes only with sacrifice."

Says Sects Will Disappear.

In reviewing Christianity originally, historically, and what it is at the present time, the speaker said:

"The founder of Christianity had no idea of a ritual. The rituals have been inherited from pagan religions. Christianity is not a book. All religions have more or less of a story at their base, but Christianity does not stand or fall on the accuracy of its story.

"There is no salvation in theology. Christianity is not an institution and should not be confused with the machinery, called church, which has carried Christianity down the ages. None of the sects is Christianity. Each sect has developed a certain phase of Christianity, and when the work of the various sects, whether Roman Catholic or Protestant, has been completed, it will be handed over to the church universal and the sects will disappear.

"The Romans gave Christianity an organization, and the Teutonic peoples gave it individualism."

New Importations

Novel and Original Ideas in Jewel Cases

PERHAPS the most unusual and artistic things ever brought to Chicago are the jewel cases of French gilt in the form of small cabinets, with ivory miniatures set in. They are altogether novel and exclusive with us. Scarcely less attractive is the new line of jewel cases, trays, cigarette boxes, etc., of metal, with reproductions of French prints exquisitely etched on the covers. They are absolutely unlike anything shown in Chicago and our customers are especially requested to ask to see them.

Fireproof Jewel Cases

THIS is the most distinct novelty we offer this season. Of commodious size and many compartments, these cases are yet portable and are only about eight inches long. Although made of steel that is absolutely fireproof, the leather covering and handsome appearance suggest only the usual jewel box. The utility of such a case is quite obvious. We have been able to secure only a few, so an early purchase will forestall disappointment.

We can also recommend to the attention of customers our new pigskin cases and handbags, a beautiful assortment of small opera glasses of most artistic appearance, and a wonderful display of articles in brass.

CATHOLIC LAYMEN GIVEN DISTINCTION

Dominate Important Committees at Chicago Missionary Congress Next Week.

POPE PIUS REPRESENTED.

Apostolic Delegate Most Notable of Church Dignitaries to Be Present.

One of the notable features of the Roman Catholic missionary congress, to be held in Chicago next week, is the prominent part being taken in every phase of it by laymen. A large number of the addresses will be delivered by laymen from all parts of the country. Less than half the delegates are expected to be of the clergy, and laymen predominate on the committees which have the affair in charge.

Among the men who will take part in the deliberations of the congress, leading discussions on various phases of mission work, are: Richard Cannon of the St. Vincent de Paul society of Chicago; Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, chief justice of Canada; M. A. Fanning of Cleveland, O.; Judge M. F. Girten of Chicago, A. A. Hirst of Philadelphia, Alexander Granger of Kankakee, William P. Breen of Fort Wayne, N. L. Piotrowski of Chicago, and Bourke Cockran of New York.

Laymen Dominate in the Committees.

The following are the members of the reception committee and of the committee on arrangements:

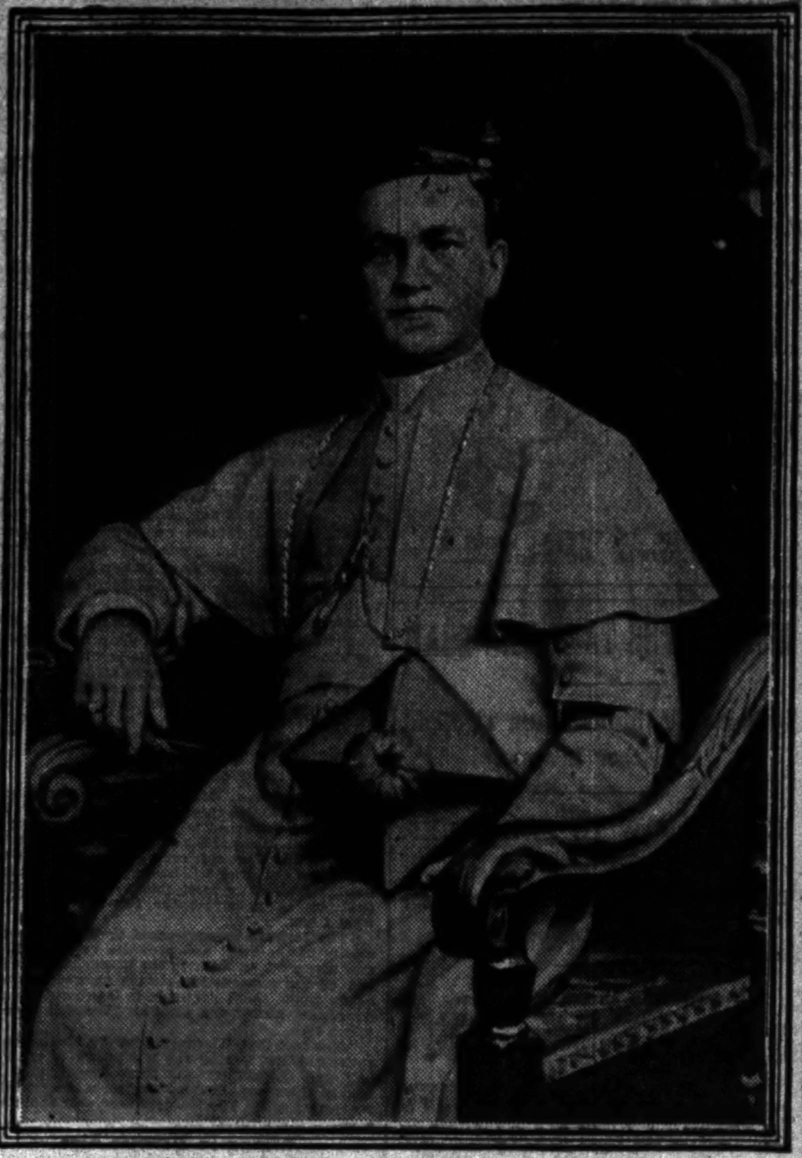
Pope's Representative Notable Delegate.

The Most Rev. Diomede Falconio, archbishop of Larissa, apostolic delegate to the United States and special representative of Pope Pius X. at the congress, will be the most important of the scores of prelates, abbots, and distinguished laymen and priests present. It is not generally known that Archbishop Falconio is a citizen of the United States, having voted at the presidential election of 1872 when Horace Greeley was defeated by Grant.

Pope Pius' Representative at Chicago Roman Catholic Missionary Congress.



THE MOST REV. DIOMEDE FALCONIO, D.D.

RE-ELECTION OF CANNON IS DEPLORED BY PASTOR HEAD.

Declares Liquor Traffic Is the Issue on Which Battle at the Polls Must Be Waged.

Commending the election of William H. Taft as an indorsement of his clean character and at the same time speaking highly of the character of William J. Bryan, the Rev. W. H. Head, pastor of Union Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, deprecated the reëlection of Joseph G. Cannon to congress.

"Speaker Cannon was reëlected," he said, "but the cause for which he stands is not right and will eventually be defeated. The great issue for the future is the liquor question. Street was defeated, but what means the vote of 47,000 when the normal vote of his ticket was only 7,000? It means that the great moral and religious forces of our city must be reckoned with. When this element goes to the primaries and does not wait till the slate is already fixed and victory already snatched from us we will have our say.

"Mr. Wayman was elected. But it was not the bad he stood for that elected him, but the good. Thousands voted for him not as an indorsement of him but because he was better than Kern. Mr. Wayman in all efforts to enforce the law will have the hearty support and sympathy of all those who opposed him. It would be a joyous surprise to find our preëlection predictions not coming true. Let us hope and pray they may not."

SOCIALIST MENACE WORST IN THE U. S.

Dr. Frank Gunsaulus Claims Similar Danger in Europe Is Overshadowed.

PERIL TO INDIVIDUAL.

Minister Says Absolute Equality Will Be Reached at Expense of Quality.

Socialism and individualism were vigorously contrasted by the Rev. Frank Gunsaulus at the Central church in the Auditorium yesterday. The minister declared that in his opinion socialism is one of the worst evils that threaten the world, and that the danger from this source is more grave in the United States than in any other country.

"We are told that we are living in an age of commercialism; that our next step must be socialism," he said. "There seems never to have been a moment when we were so willing to adjourn to the government our tasks and duties. The danger is that the socialistic creed may be adopted before we have the individual with a moral power necessary for that state.

"Socialism in France has gone to pieces. In Germany it has received a repelling blow. It is making no advance in England. We stand more in danger of it than any other country. Our dangers in America are from the academic circles and writers.

Means Loss of Personality.

"America is personality incarnate. Personalism founded our new continent. Our country was peopled by men who sought individualism. George Washington was a millionaire, a monopolist, if you will. He was the richest man in America, yet it was his individualism that won for us our country and government, not the government that made him. Socialism would seek to take all such as he and Franklin and cut them off at the top, trim them to suit all other men, chop them down in brain, and heart, and courage. This is the last class of men the world could get on without.

"Government has seemed to me the most subtle and difficult of all fine arts. It was a simple thing in the era of barbarism for one big savage to beat into submission his weaker creatures. Despotism, too, was acceptable to ignorance. Government never can be satisfied until it rests on something higher. A social organization is a political machine that shall compel the strong to yield that which will make the weak stronger.

Lower Quality for Equality.

"Selfhood should be distinguished from selfishness. The latter is the soul of greed. The former is the reverse, and is the highest attainment of oneself. Socialism means the inefficient demanding the sacrifice of the efficient, compelling equality by deteriorating quality, adding minus to minus and selfishness to selfishness in the attempt to strengthen weakness.

"I shall help others because Christ loves them and I love Christ. Christ can never lead to the selfishness of socialism which requires a man to give up his personal will and be controlled by the will of the government. Christ did not attempt to form a state or a government, but he touched the individual. He was a personal Savior."

Warm, Pretty Kimonos and Negligees
A SPECIAL SHOWING

Our carefully selected stock of Kimonos and Negligees is made up of just those styles that women of taste want in garments of this character. We have many very beautiful and elaborate Negligees and also a large showing of the everyday kind that are practical and comfortable for winter wear, and at the same time pretty and becoming in design and coloring. They are also unusually reasonable in price. Four are mentioned below:

The Negligee illustrated at the right is made of figured flannelette in short waisted Empire style, with graceful bias back—in cut and style it suggests a much more expensive garment. The edges are worked in silk matching in color the floral design in the Kimono, which comes in brown, gray, navy, red, black and lavender. Price $2.95.

A pretty flannelette Kimono has the back bias with fullness in front laid in two plaits, and sleeves gathered into a cuff. In figured designs in red, light blue, black and lavender faced with a plain material—$1.95.

Very effective is a Japanese crepe Negligee, made with Empire back, the waist line defined with ribbon run through a beading of the material embroidered in silk. This same embroidered crepe finishes the neck, sleeves and front. In red, navy, pink, light blue, black and lavender, and a light gray ground with delicate lavender clematis—$5,00.

The Negligee illustrated at the left is just as pretty and daintily feminine as can be. Made in Empire style of small figured Japanese silk, trimmed with tucked silk bands, piped with a plain color, which matches the plain silk lining the body of the Negligee. In navy, tan, brown and rose—$13.50.

Chicago Hurlers Beat St. Louis in Big Benefit Game. Football Gossip.

CHARITY WINNER IN HURLING GAME

Locals Beat St. Louis Team by 26 to 5 Score Before a Record Crowd.

RECEIPTS REACH $10,000.

Industrial Schools Will Be Beneficiaries of Enthusiasm for Gaelic Sport.

Nearly 12,000 people went to Gaelic Athletic park yesterday afternoon to see an intercity hurling match between a team of Chicago All Stars and a St. Louis team. Chicago won the game, but charity was the greatest winner, close to $10,000 going into the box office, which will benefit the Good Shepherd Industrial schools of Chicago. The exact amount could not be stated last night by the Rev. Father Fielding.

It was the largest crowd that ever saw a contest at Gaelic park, and for many it was the first time since they left the old sod that they had seen the games of their youth. While charity was the real purpose, the chance for victory was not overlooked, and the game was fiercely fought from start to finish, Chicago triumphing by a score of 26 to 5. The football game was won by the Chicago Rangers, who defeated the Emmets, 10 to 0.

Local Team Superior.

The hurling match was a return for the one played in St. Louis last year when the Chicago team easily defeated the men of the Mound city. The lesson taught the Missourians was not forgotten and they came primed and loaded with the best hurlers they could win away from old country teams. Individually some of these men were stars, but Chicago's great combination completely dazzled the opposing seventeen and at only one stage of the game did they look to have a chance.

That was at the beginning of the last half. Chicago was fourteen points to the good, but St. Louis came to life with such determined and concentrated attack that the locals went into the air for a few minutes while their opponents sent in a goal which counted three for them and two single points, which brought their score up to five. But there Chicago settled and the visitors never had a chance thereafter.

The game began with Chicago making a sustained attack on the St. Louis goal. In a minute's play Burke drove the leather past Fitzgerald for a goal and the ball was no sooner put in play again than Conroy, Dineen, and Burke were back again with it right in front of the St. Louis posts. A hot scrimmage followed and Burke sent in a second goal, which brought the local total up to six, only four minutes after play began. St. Louis went better in the next ten minutes and the forwards attacked the Chicago goal, but were not well backed up by their comrades in the back field. From then till the whistle for half time it was all Chicago with the score 14 to 0.

Short Rally by Visitors.

The second half began with Chicago scoring again, Dineen beating Fitzgerald with a hard drive. Then came the surprise. St. Louis braced and Tom Connors and Pat Dee scored points in rapid succession, being given good support by their teammates in getting the ball down the field. J. McCarthy came along with a goal and the visitors were playing a great game. That was their finish. Lineup:

CHICAGO BEE STILL BUZZES IN MINOR LEAGUE BONNETS.

Chairman Ferrell of Arbitration Board Says Subjects May Be Discussed, but Time Is Not Ripe.

The board of arbitration of the National Association of Minor Leagues will meet at the Auditorium Annex this afternoon prior to tomorrow's annual meeting of the association. The board will take up sixty-four cases. Among the more important are those of the new Arkansas league, the Ohio and Pennsylvania leagues, and the California State league.

"These cases," said J. H. Farrell of Auburn, N. Y., chairman of the board of arbitration, "will determine the rights of the contestants to sit in the meeting of the association to be held on Tuesday. We may also consider suggestions regarding a minor league club in Chicago, but of this I am not certain. We hardly believe this field should be entered, at least right now.

"Our great trouble is with drafting players. Although the major clubs can take but one player from a class A team each season, class A clubs market their star players at random, often disrupting a good ball team and filling in with men not strong enough for the major leagues the following season. The practice should be stopped."

John I. Taylor, Manager Fred Lake, and Treasurer McBreen of the Boston Americans also reached the city yesterday.

Tigers Get "Deacon" Rogers.

Helena, Ark., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The local state league club has accepted terms from Detroit for "Deacon" Rogers, the giant college pitcher, who led everybody in this circuit last season with all but a few games won.

War in Indoor Ball Ranks.

Representatives of the De La Salle, Tom Murray, Pirate, and other teams will meet tonight at 74 Adams street to take action on the reorganization of the Chicago Indoor Baseball league. Officials of the league recently discovered that the leaders of last year's Sunday semi-pro league had incorporated under the title of the Chicago Indoor Baseball league, robbing them of the title. The action of the semi-pro men likely will lead to reprisals and a merry little war seems imminent.

E. FROHN WINS FIRST PRIZE.

Skat League Holds Its First Fall Meeting with 370 Players Taking Part.

E. Frohn, 1002 Oakdale avenue, won the first prize of $100 at the first fall meeting of the Chicago Skat league, in which 370 contestants were entered, at the Sherman house yesterday afternoon, the fourteen prizes all going to Chicago players.

The contest was the closest witnessed in some time and the players from Detroit, Milwaukee, Bloomington, Dubuque, Clinton, and other places made the home talent play their best to defeat them.

J. C. Panesv Wins at the Traps.

J. C. Panesv won the main event at the Clybourn Gun club yesterday by defeating John Harding by a score of 23 to 21 out of a possible twenty-five birds.

Games played yesterday in the seventh round of the Association Football league of Chicago put the Woodlawns in the lead, as they defeated the Hyde Park Albions, while the champion Campbell Rovers lost to the Hyde Park Blues. The win puts the Blues in the running, as they have played one game less than the other teams.

With thirty seconds remaining to play, Jack Evans of the Hyde Park Blues yesterday turned a virtual defeat into victory at the Northwest ball park, his opportune goal beating the Campbell Rovers, 2 goals to 1. Each side had scored one goal in the first half, and the champions had been outplaying the Blues through the second, forcing five unproductive corner kicks. Then Evans, playing wide, got a long pass from Heale, and with the ball at his toe dashed past the backs and beat Soutter with a fine shot from twenty yards out. He took the ball from center field.

Three thousand spectators saw the Hibernians defeat the Sherman Park team at the foot of Indiana street, 1 goal to 0. It was the crucial match of the fall series, as the visitors had a chance to catch the champions. Line-up:

SHAKEUP FOR YALE ELEVEN.

Result of Brown Game Will Be Several Changes in the Lineup This Week.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Yale football stock has taken a tumble and the coaches feel that nothing but a shakeup of the eleven from top to bottom will straighten out matters.

How many changes will be ordered at the scrimmaging tomorrow had not been decided tonight. Murphy will lose his selection as first string quarter back and Ford Johnson will hold it permanently. Brides has shown up so weak at half back that he may be displaced by either Murphy or Field.

Coy's demoralization in the backfield after he muffed a Brown punt, making a touchdown against Yale possible, upset the Yale back field. Daly is another fallen idol. His forward pass gave Brown another chance for a touchdown.

CONTUMACY IN FOOTBALL TEAM.

Englewood High Likely to Spoil Its Team Efficiency Through Differences with the Coaches.

With two of the most important games to be played within the next three weeks, the Englewood High eleven has jeopardized its team perfection through differences with its coach. According to the rumors, and they seem to have plenty of foundation, Coach Fagin has retired as instructor on account of the lack of proper spirit shown by the squad in its daily workouts.

To the rooters and friends of the team the situation appears to be serious. The team has gone thus far without meeting defeat, holds the lead in the pennant race, and its chances of winning would be bright if the boys would stifle the spirit of insubordination. It is said victory has turned the heads of the youngsters. Anyway, Coach Fagin has withdrawn.

The alumni held a meeting last week, in which the squad was told it must practice and obey the orders of the coaches or lose the support of the graduates. The boys, however, seem obdurate. Fagin was making great progress with the team, and it was due to him that the team has had such a successful season.

STAGG FEARS THE BADGERS?

Maroon Coach Says His Team Has a Hard Battle Ahead.

CORNELL IS DANGEROUS FOE.

Director Thinks Ithacans Full of Tricks That Are Dark.

"Cornell and Wisconsin will both be mysterious strangers to us when we meet them. Neither team has showed its real strength, because neither one has been forced to play its best game so far. We seem to be up against a double puzzle."

This view of the maroon football situation was expressed yesterday by Coach Stagg upon his return from Minneapolis, where he watched Wisconsin beat Minnesota on Saturday. He brought the Midway rooters news of suppressed tactics on Wisconsin's part and expects to hear the same report in regard to Cornell when Assistant Coach Leo De Tray turns in his notes on the Cornell-Amherst game this morning.

Coach Stagg sized Wisconsin up as the best team he has seen this year, despite the sparing showing of new plays. He predicted that the Badgers would give the Maroons all kinds of trouble at Madison a week from next Saturday, when the two teams will meet in the battle for the western gridiron championship. Defensive strength and efficiency in the ultra-new football are Wisconsin's good points, according to the director.

Strong on Forward Pass.

"By all means Wisconsin is the best team I have seen in action this season," Stagg said. "The chief thing I learned is that the Badgers rely on the forward pass and the open game for their gains. I believe they have this style of play down to a fine point, and that they will be prepared to work it to the limit when we meet them. They showed no tendency to underrate the forward pass, from what I saw.

"The forward passes worked by Wisconsin were mostly of the swift and accurate variety. Messmer was great on working the passes and the other end of the combination always showed fast and heady work. Moll particularly impressed me as a dangerous kicker and general. We will have to watch him.

"The fact that Wisconsin played a kicking game entirely after scoring the touchdown in the first half and did not try any plays excepting at the last of the game, enabled the team to keep all of its secrets safe. The Badgers used only about half a dozen plays altogether.

Strong in Defense Also.

"Wisconsin has a strong enough defense to give us trouble in working our plays. They are particularly strong in their defense for the forward passes, and in this department probably they will show us up a bit. I certainly believe they will make us fight for the game.

"It is plain to see that Cornell kept its light under a bushel. With Leo De Tray in the stands, they could not be expected to bare their secrets any more than necessary. From what I read about the game, I believe they did not give away a single new play. We have a big proposition ahead of us to dispose of the Ithacans next Saturday."

PURPLE ELEVEN NOT DOWNCAST

Men Think They Made a Good Record in the Contest with Purdue Team.

The Purple football camp was not as joyous yesterday as it would have been had the team won from Purdue on Saturday, but the men are by no means downcast over the result. They feel that their first effort at the game with a team that could really play good football and had lost only one game out of seven this season, and that with Chicago, resulted in a showing of which they can be proud.

No man was seriously injured and all are in good spirits for starting work today for their last and hardest game, that with Illinois at Champaign on Nov. 21. Two weeks of hard practice is before them in preparation for that game.

While Northwestern realizes that its hardest game is with Illinois, the purple men believe they "have something on" the Illinois bunch. Enthusiasm already runs high and it is believed that 500 students can easily be secured to take the trip to Champaign and root for the Purple.

YOST MAY SHIFT HIS LINEUP.

Minor Troubles Among Regulars Likely to Cause Change in Favor of New Material.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—It looks as if the Michigan team was to undergo still another change in the lineup before the biggest game of the schedule.

Watkins was unable to go in at end in the Kentucky State game on Saturday owing to the objection of his father to his playing a game in his present condition. The player expects, however, to secure permission to get in the game with Pennsylvania next Saturday, as he already has his physician's statement that he is able to play.

Ranny, who has been holding down right end in recent games, has shown up to the satisfaction of Yost and may have the job cinched.

Riley, the 214 pounder, added to the squad recently, played exceptionally well on Saturday.

BADGERS ARE IN GOOD SHAPE.

Team Returns from Gopher Victory and Will Start Work for Maroons at Once.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—The Badgers returned from Minneapolis this morning. All are in good condition and ready to stand the two weeks' grind in preparation for the Chicago game at Madison on Nov. 21. The rooters are satisfied with the low score in the Minnesota game. Work of the next two weeks will be entirely different from that of the last week. New signals will be introduced and the team taught to play an open game, both on defense and offense, in contrast to the work preparatory to overcoming the Minnesota mass plays.

Tyrell and Robinson Qualify.

F. Tyrell of Forest Park and W. Robinson of the Coliseum qualified yesterday afternoon in the second preliminary of the two mile state championship at Riverview, the former finishing first in 5:37. Ray Curtis and W. Krause, both of the home rink, qualified at night, the time being 5:41.

GAME TELLS TALE OF OLD AND NEW.

Gopher Defeat by Badgers a Commentary on Styles of Football.

OTHER GRIDIRON TRIALS.

Defeat of Indiana for the Fourth Time Shows Something Is Awry in Camp.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

By defeating Minnesota last Saturday at Minneapolis 4 to 0 Wisconsin has an undisputed right to meet Chicago for the western championship at Madison on Nov. 21. The Badgers might have run up a larger score on their opponents had it not been for Stagg's presence in the grandstand. The Wisconsin coaches evidently know the ability of the Maroon director to size up plays, also his skill in devising a defense which will stop the formations.

If Minnesota had scored the touchdown at the start of the game which it lost through bad judgment on McGovern's part there might be a different story to tell. But results count, and Wisconsin deserves the credit. After making the touchdown in the first half the Badgers were willing to take the defensive and made few attempts to score, preferring to kick the ball whenever they got possession of it.

Minnesota had few changes in its offense from those used against Chicago. There were more attempts to use the forward pass and onside kick, but these were so crude they were easily intercepted or the player checked till the ball struck the ground. Old formations again were the forte of the Gophers, and they made some gains on them, but were held when the Badger goal was threatened.

Gophers Not "Up to Date."

When the Wisconsin halves were pulled up behind the tackles to reinforce the line all attempts to gain on old tactics were checked and Minnesota forced to try a field goal or a useless forward pass or onside kick.

The Wisconsin team and rooters are jubilant over their victory, and with two weeks intervening before the Chicago game the Badgers will get in some great work and will have the benefit of watching the Maroons show some of their new plays against Cornell next Saturday.

Northwestern did well to hold Purdue to a 16 to 10 count. The result of the game showed the Purple has possibilities. The outcome of the contest should in no way dampen the spirits of the team or rooters. Comparatively it was a good showing, and the football world has nothing but praise for the Purple team and its coaches.

Illinois displayed great improvement in winning from Iowa by 22 to 0. Frequent and deadly use of the forward pass accounted for the Hawkeyes' downfall. Little Sinnock, the Illinois quarter back, again was in the limelight with his accurate shooting on forward passes, and the ends always managed to get out in the open, where they could receive the throws unmolested. The downstaters seem destined for a good finish, and if the improvement continues they should win the remaining games on the schedule.

Michigan showed its improvement in the game with Kentucky State, winning by the overwhelming score of 62 to 0. The game served many purposes. It gave Yost an opportunity to try out all his men in actual contest, it gave the players confidence in their ability to cope with the easterners, and showed Michigan has a powerful attack, which should be able to gain in next Saturday's contest with Pennsylvania.

Princeton Defeat a Surprise.

In the east there were many surprises, the defeat of Princeton by Dartmouth and Harvard's triumph over the Indians being the most prominent. The Tigers were beaten because they did not care to divulge their best plays in the presence of Yale scouts. Yale and Princeton will meet next Saturday and this struggle is paramount in the coaches' and players' minds. Dartmouth is strong this season and there is no attempt to detract one bit of credit from the Haneverians. But Princeton would rather win from Yale than any other eleven and to accomplish this result everything else is sacrificed.

Harvard showed reversal of form in beating the Indians 17 to 0. It was the consensus of opinion before the game that the redmen would be the victors. It would not be surprising now to see the Crimson win from Old Eli one week from Saturday.

Yale met a tartar in Brown, which held it to a 10—10 score. There were several disputes about the official's rulings, which apparently robbed Brown of a chance to win the game. The Providence eleven played Yale off its feet most of the time.

Cornell was given a close call by Amherst, barely winning 6 to 0. Only through the grand work of Capt. Walder were the Ithacans able to squeeze out a victory.

Pennsylvania had an easy time with Lafayette, winning 34 to 4. The Quakers played by far their best game of the year, which speaks well for their chances against Michigan next week.

MERCHANTS' ANGER FACES RAILROADS.

"Tribune" Statement Regarding Proposed Higher Rates as Bomb.

GIVE VITRIOLIC NOTICE.

Conference Held Last Spring Condemns Increases as Entirely Unnecessary.

The statement in THE TRIBUNE yesterday of the intention of the railroads to put into effect Jan. 1 a horizontal increase of freight rates amounting to about 10 per cent, created excitement among the business men of the city.

The result will be the calling together of the committee of fifteen which was given charge of the fight against increased rates by the conference of fifty commercial organizations from all parts of the east and middle west, which met in Chicago May 15.

The conference, the most important of its kind ever held, passed stringent resolutions and appointed the committee of representative men from a dozen cities with power to act for it in carrying out the intent of the assembly. Frederick W. Upham, the chairman of the committee, is at present out of Chicago, but his friends prophesied that the news would bring him back and stir him to activity.

Business Men Take Stand.

The following is the gist of the resolutions passed by the conference and is to be taken as the firm stand of the commercial interests of the east and middle west:

The business interests of the country cannot stand a horizontal increase in freight rates.

The time has come to appeal to the courts for protection.

The railroads must submit to the interstate commerce commission the reasonableness of the proposed increase.

The proposed increase must be held in abeyance until the commission has heard all parties and passed upon the question.

Unless the carriers consent to this method of adjusting the issue, prompt action will be taken in the courts, to prevent the carriers putting the proposed increase into effect.

Ardor of Railroad Cools.

After this businesslike stand by the conference, the railroads abated their ardor for higher rates and after some communications with the committee it was understood that nothing should be done by either party until after election, by which time it was hoped that things would look so cheerful that no change would be necessary.

The action of the railroads in going ahead with their preparations for an increase may be looked upon as an unfair breach of this tacit agreement and strenuous sessions are expected when the committee meets.

WHOLESALE TRADE SHOWS LIFE

Orders Pick Up Following Tuesday's Election, Which Give Assurances of Returning Prosperity.

"Every merchant is positive that we are to have at least four years of prosperity, and for that reason we are sure to have them." This was the sentiment expressed by a leading merchant last week, and that it contained more truth than poetry was evident from the improvement noted in wholesale markets generally.

Jobbers in dry goods, clothing, footwear, furniture, and many other necessities received urgent orders from retailers who were out of supplies or so sparingly stocked up that they could not meet the increased requirements of their trade. They, in turn, were compelled to call on the manufacturers for additional supplies, and the latter were forced to work mills and factories nearer full capacity than during any previous time in more than a year in order to meet with the increased demands. In all commercial and industrial lines, where conservative operations have predominated for a year and more, there was less hesitancy shown in making commitments, more help was employed, and conditions were nearer normal than since the money stringency put a crimp in business operations a year ago.

One of the most favorable features of the rejuvenated business activity is the almost entire lack of speculative interest.

Brisk building operations and indications that railroads are preparing to get into the market for considerable tonnages gave steel and iron makers a much more comfortable feeling than they have experienced in months, and they looked forward with nothing but confidence. The week in lumber was featured by the placing of numerous orders which have been held pending the result of the election, and the general feeling at the close was one of optimism, which seemed warranted with railroads in the market for liberal supplies, furniture manufacturers busy, and farmers buying implements so fast that the production had to be increased.

BIG MEN TO AID HORSE SHOW

Owners of Famous Animals Will Compete at Chicago.

RICH PRIZES WIN INTEREST.

Supporters of Exhibition for December Announces Trophies.

Society is to have another opportunity to pay tribute to King Horse. With prospects of equine entries including the best of the most famous stables in the land, rivaling horse shows of former years, the management of the International Horse Show association of Chicago announces the big feature for the afternoons and evenings of Dec. 7, 8, 9, and 10.

Leading spirits of former horse shows are prominent in the management of the coming show, which, it is said, stands out as Chicago's biggest effort along those lines. A total of $15,000 will be distributed by the awards of the judges.

Originally calling for eighty-six classes, the program has been augmented in the last few days by Secretary Orvis T. Henkle, who has been compelled to add several classes. Entries for all classes will close with Secretary Henkle on Nov. 21.

Henry Fairfax of Aldie, Va., and one of the best judges of horse flesh south of Mason and Dixon's line; E. B. White, also of the Old Dominion state; and William Pollack of Pittsfield, Mass., will be the board of judges.

Forty of the ninety available boxes for the big horse fair have been disposed of at liberal prices. Among those who have purchased the boxes are Miss Emily H. Bedford of Brooklyn, an accomplished horse woman; Mortimer Levering, Lexington, Ky.; Judge W. H. Moore, J. Ogden Armour, John A. Spoor, C. M. Hewitt, Sir William Cooper, Berkhamsted, England; Sir George Drummond, Beaconsfield, Que.; C. H. Swift, Gustavus Swift, Arthur G. Leonard, John Clay, Alvin H. Sanders, Dr. G. Howard Davison, New York; E. F. Swift, Edward Morris, and George W. Jackson.

Horse Lovers Plan the Show.

Many of the men who have contributed to the success of other horse shows held in this city are among the directors of the association that has planned the coming event, among them J. A. Spoor, Arthur G. Leonard, J. Ogden Armour, A. H. Sanders, Edward Morris, E. F. Swift, of this city, and W. A. Harris, Lawrence, Kas.; G. H. Davison, Millbrook, N. Y.; Mortimer Levering, Lexington, Ky.; Fred Pabst, Oconomowoc, Wis.; and John Clay, foreign representative of the International Live Stock exposition.

It is quite certain that Alfred G. Vanderbilt will be at the show. If Mr. Vanderbilt can accommodate his engagements to the date selected for the show it is not unlikely that he will nominate some of his best horses.

Clem Studebaker Jr. of South Bend as well as Col. George M. Studebaker are planning nominations of horses that include some of the grandest road teams and park fours in the Hoosier state. Lawrence Jones of Kentucky, Adolphus Busch of St. Louis, Judge W. H. Moore, Mrs. Jarvis Hunt, George E. Pepper of Toronto, and Shelby T. Harbison also are designated as certain exhibitors in the arena. The best hunters of the Onwentsia club and the Midlothian Hunt club have planned to put in their best mounts.

Not a little attention has been paid to the popular feature of previous shows—the high jumping animals—and liberal prizes will be offered.

Fine Cups for Best Horses.

Some extraordinary features have been emphasized in the prize list sent out to hundreds of breeders of fine harness horses for the coming show. Class 13, for gig horses, will have a $500 cup for a trophy. This is for the best gig horse.

Class 22 is a championship division for heavy harness horses, open only to animals which have taken a first prize or one of a pair of horses which have won a first prize in the harness classes at this show. Each aspirant for the $250 cup that will go to the winner will be shown to a suitable vehicle.

Hundreds of dollars have been set aside for specials for the display of the best German, Hanoverian, and Oldenburg coach animals, while the draft horse classes will effect the appearance of several six horse teams, including the famous Armour team that captured the world's premier honors at the international horse show of London, England.

COUNCIL SESSION TO BE SHORT.

Fireworks Ordinance Will Be Presented if Ready, but No Action Can Be Taken.

A short session of the council is looked for this evening. If the fireworks ordinance is completed today it will come in, but no action can be taken on it. The finance committee reports are inconsequential. Ald. Britten will introduce his anti-divorce resolution, but it will have to go to the committee on state legislation. Mayor Busse says he has only the ordinary communications to send it. The local transportation committee has nothing ready.

LABOR SHORTAGE IN COKE REGION.

Thousand Men Wanted at Connellsville as Result of Industrial Revival.

WILL FIRE MANY OVENS.

Saturday Biggest Pay Day in the Pittsburg District in Thirteen Months.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8.—[Special.]—As a result of the revival in industrial activity there is a remarkable scarcity of laborers in the Connellsville coke district. An appeal is made in this week's issue of the Connellsville Courier for 1,000 men. According to the operators, the foreign workmen who went home last fall when the financial stringency came on have not returned. Thousands who did return to America, fearing that the Connellsville coke region would not be as good as before, continued on their way to the far west. A positive famine of coke workers is threatened.

The Orient Coke company reports the closing of an order for 12,000 tons of coke a week for six months. Thirty additional ovens will be fired at the firm's plant near Connellsville at midnight. This contract has been hanging fire some time contingent on the election of Taft.

Will Resume Work on Model Town.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel company, which last fall quit work on the new model town at Aliquippa, where a new $15,000,000 steel plant will be erected, has issued orders to have the town building resumed. Work also will resume at once on the construction of new blast furnaces at this place foe the same company. For twelve months work has been at a standstill on this great plant.

The biggest pay day in thirteen months in the Pittsburg district was yesterday. Beginning tomorrow many employés of the Verona shops of the Pennsylvania railroad will be placed on time and a half in order to hurry repairing of cars. An official report issued today shows that last week many of the men worked six full days and three full nights.

Glass Plants to Resume.

It was announced here today that ten glass plants in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, and Indiana will be put in operation within two weeks. They are the property of the National Glass company, now in the hands of a receiver. All have been idle for months and bondholders will endeavor to purchase plants at the trustee's sale next Tuesday with a view of putting them in operation so as to get the money back.

The National Glass company was an enterprise of Whitney, Stephenson & Co., the brokerage firm which failed several months ago. While they owned glass plants, they did not operate them, leasing them instead to underlying concerns. The company has outstanding bonds of $2,500,000, of which $600,000 are first mortgage and the rest general.

Three of the plants are up to date and ready for immediate operation. They are located at Cambridge, O., Dunkirk, Ind., and Jeannette, Pa. Others which need only a few repairs are located at Cumberland, Md., Fairmont, W. Va., Rochester, Pa., Wellsburg, W. Va., Lancaster, O., and Bridgeport.

"AD" MEN FARMERS AT DINNER.

Speaker "Joe" Cannon Will Talk at Novel Harvest Home Banquet Tonight.

Attired in rustic costumes, local advertising men will indulge in a harvest home dinner this evening at the Chicago Advertising association's clubrooms.

The decorations of the banquet room and the club will be in harmony with the rural clothes worn by the participants, and the promoters of the function expect to make it the most memorable in the history of the association. Speaker Joseph Cannon and Frank Galenne of St. Louis will be the guests of the city farmers and after the dinner will deliver addresses.

The designers of the unique entertainment are "Ed" Westman, "Bill" McJunkin, Ray Woltz, "Al" Chamberlain, Wilbur Higgins, John Morey, and "Bob" Patterson.

Will Observe King's Birthday.

The sixty-seventh anniversary of the birth of King Edward VII. will be celebrated this evening by the British Empire association at a smoker in the banquet room of the Hamilton club. John Crerar will preside at the meeting and remarks will be made by various members of the organization.

HELPS IN BUSINESS REVIVAL

Wall Street Activity Shows Industrial Trend.

BETTER OUTLOOK IN MONEY.

Easier Rates and Growing Confidence Important Factors.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Financial markets greeted the news of Taft's election to the presidency with an outburst of activity and strength unparalleled since the fall of 1898. Preliminary inquiries conditioned upon the election quickly were transformed into actual orders, and manufacturing plants in various parts of the country made immediate preparations to enlarge the output, this involving the reëmployment of thousands of men.

Naturally enough the spectacle of such unwonted strength in securities and such a stirring in the industrial world led to extravagant hopes and views. It is evident that in some quarters Taft is looked upon as a wizard who by the mere waving of a wand is to set all the people to consuming and all the factories to producing goods to their full capacity once more.

It is granted that, given a rest from agitation, this country should enter an era of prosperity unprecedented in its annals. Shelves are bare of goods, warehouses and yards everywhere are understocked, money is cheap and plentiful, and the will of the people is to work. The combination is irresistible. Time must elapse, however, before the full force of these factors asserts itself. The winter season is upon us, and it will hamper, as it always has, construction work of all kinds, particularly by railroads, executives of great industrial corporations expressing their judgment that not until spring will the full effects of the revival in business be felt.

Meantime, however, improvement should steadily continue. Indications that this will be the case are found in such matters as placement of orders by the Pennsylvania railroad last week for electrical equipment for its New York tunnels with the Westinghouse company, this particular contract calling for the expenditure of some $5,000,000 of $25,000,000 which must be expended in this work before it is completed, and in the increased output of the country's iron furnaces and better earnings of railroads.

Money Rates Reflect Change.

Moderate advances in rates for money last week reflected, doubtless, the opinion of the banking world that business is about to undergo such a change for the better as would involve the use of larger amounts of capital. The surplus not only of banks in this city but of those the country over is so large that the quickening of trade can proceed far before anything like high money rates result, and in the meantime the ease with which funds can be obtained must prove a great factor in a trade revival. Demand from the west is practically over, but there is in prospect a call from the treasury for a portion of its deposits, and the issue of bonds to take care of those put out a year ago, which will require financing.

Exchange rates moved in such fashion as to indicate the disappearance of any possible demand for gold by Europe, and in view of the strong position of great banks abroad any general advance in money rates here would be apt to bring gold to this side.

London More Optimistic.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The satisfaction with which the results of the presidential election were received more than offset the uneasiness felt regarding the possibilities of European complications. While at first there was a disposition to believe the effects of Taft's election had been largely discounted the impetus given to business and Wall street's big dealings combined to remove doubts here.

Erratic Week in Berlin.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Last week will live long in the memory of the stock exchange as one of the most erratic on record. The week opened amid general depression, which was intensified by the uncertainty regarding the outcome of the American presidential election. The bear contingent unloaded heavily, causing a general slump in prices. Material advances in steels, irons, and American issues proved the feature of the last half of the week.

THE BARGAIN OF BARGAINS
UTAH COPPER

In the terrific bull market now under way "COPPERS" will become first favorites, both for investors and speculators.

The cheapest copper of any, bar none, is Utah Copper, now selling at 47.

It is cheaper today at $47, under existing conditions, than Amalgamated would be at $30, yet AMALGAMATED is in urgent demand at $88. I say this simply to state fact, for I am a bull on Amalgamated at $90.

Conditions, metal and marketwise, which will cause Amalgamated to sell at $100—I believe it is on its way to over $120—will cause Utah to fly to $75, then mount to over $100.

Both are large enterprises, established and staple.

Amalgamated is representative of old method. Utah Copper of new.

Amalgamated is deep mining with an underground city continuously calling for millions annually for timbering, air, unwatering and hoisting. Utah is the representative of the newly perfected process of above ground steam shovel, manufacturing proposition copper mining.

Amalgamated's product costs 10 to 11 cents.

Utah's costs 8 cents.

Every day Amalgamated continues production first costs increase.

Every day Utah continues production first costs decrease.

Bear in mind my opinion is disinterested. I have no hand in the management or control of Utah. Bear in mind I am a terrific bull on everything. Bear in mind I was the only one who dared to go unqualifiedly on record before election in a world-wide flung advertisement predicting to the minutest detail just what has eventuated from the election—politically and marketwise.

I unqualifiedly, unreservedly advise the 25,000 stockholders in Amalgamated to exchange at least a portion of their holdings in Amalgamated for Utah Copper, even up to an even price exchange.

In this advertisement I am pointing to one of the opportunities of the age—an exceptional opportunity. Paste it up and see if every day which goes by during the coming six months of the present terrific bull market does not prove the soundness of the above.

P. S.—There are 750,000 shares of Utah. It is active in the Stock Exchanges of the leading markets. It is a dividend payer. It is known by representative financiers of Paris and London. In publishing this advertisement throughout Europe I particularly call the attention of Europeans to the exceptional worth of this copper stock. Europeans can have their orders filled through any of the Stock Exchange houses of Europe or America.

CROP NEWS BOLSTERS WHEAT

Poor Outlook in Domestic Winter Sections Stirs Shorts.

MAIZE PRICES LOSE GROUND.

Favorable Weather and Slow Cash Demand Prompt Heavy Pressure.

Despite pronounced public apathy wheat values last week doggedly maintained strength, some of the most prominent interests in the trade giving support that offset the pressure. The Argentine again kept the trading mind ablaze with contradictory crop advices, but general sentiment at the week end seemed to be that the recent frosts had wrought considerable damage to the grain. Late in the week domestic winter wheat conditions became more effective as a governing market factor, numerous advices indicating a bullish situation in important sections of the southwest and the Ohio valley. Saturday witnessed brisk general covering with a consequent sharp upturn in values. The close showed net advances of 1⅛c for December, 1⅛c for May, and 2⅛c for July, compared to the finals of the previous Saturday.

Contradictory News from Argentina.

The situation in the Argentine was viewed through different glasses. Some of the investigators figured that damage would not exceed 5 per cent and that it would be easily offset by the increased area, with general conditions quite as favorable as those of last year. Others noted much more extensive damage, some "seeing" fully 30 per cent loss, with the prospects for an exportable surplus very much under that of last season. Thus far more than 136,000,000 bu have been exported from the last yield, but the more bullish estimates have it that the amount available for shipping from this year's yield will not exceed 92,000,000 bu. Although leading foreign marts displayed a sound tone the greater part of the time, they did not show much concern over the unfavorable advices from the South American country.

Ohio Report Is Bullish.

The Ohio state report for November showed the condition of winter wheat to be only 56, very much under that of last year at the corresponding time and much lower than that at harvest time, when 30,000,000 bu formed the crop. Expert Snow said that that bullish statement would be largely duplicated in Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky, and elsewhere east of the Mississippi, with the outlook far from bright in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, and other sections beyond the big stream. Similar conditions were said to prevail in parts of the German empire and Hungary. Weather conditions generally were favorable for moving the grain in this country, although continued drought only increased apprehension over the position of the new crop.

Receipts Continue Liberal.

The domestic movement continued of liberal proportions, with little on the surface to indicate much of a letup in the near future. The available supplies again showed a big increase, and the market pessimists say there is little to worry about in the matter of meeting requirements without difficulty. Aside from a fairly brisk call for durums and Manitobas, the export demand did not exhibit much life. The home cash situation retained some of its elements of strength, but the general inquiry lacked much of the recent urgency. Northwestern centers noted a much less active demand for flour and some of the mills southwest reported capacity much reduced, with the demand only of a hand to mouth order. It is likely that the trade will lend its principal ear to home crop advices for the moment, and bulls say that in view of what is to come on the winter wheat situation there will not be much recession from the prevailing level for the distant futures, with prospects of a stronger tone. The painful lack of outside speculative interest is one of the principal drawbacks to bullish endeavor.

Weather Favors Corn Crop.

Ideal weather for curing and moving, disappointingly light demand for the spot article, and lightness of outside speculative interest weighed heavily on last week's corn market, offsetting the bullish effects of light receipts and small stocks. The week end quotations represented net losses of 1⅛c for December, ⅛@⅜c for May, and ¼c for July, compared to the finals of the week before. Some of the big flour speculators pounded the market vigorously on the belief that the near future would witness a marked increase in the movement of grain from the country.

While weather was all that could be desired for putting the grain into good condition, husking returns from important sections of the belt were disappointingly poor. It is expected that feeding operations will materially decrease soon, with farmers offering more freely to the leading markets. One of the leading crop investigators figured that the total yield would be much larger than previously indicated, but that the outturn in the so-called surplus states would fall considerably below that of last year. There are many in the trade who, figuring that bearish sentiment is too pronounced and too general at the moment, consider the grain a purchase on all recessions, but they do not look for much of an upturn in the near future, unless startlingly bullish conditions arise.

Oats Are Independently Strong.

The oats market displayed considerable independent strength last week, although price changes were not marked. Some of the firmness was derived from the removing of hedges, and the continued lightness of the movement from the country went far toward offsetting the effects of accumulating holdings at principal distributing centers. The general cash demand showed fairly active, although the east still apparently is figuring on further price concessions. Week end pit prices showed gains of 1-16c for December, ⅛@¼c for May, and ¼c for July.

Sound Tone to Provisions.

Considering the bearish hog statistics and lightness of the cash demand, the provision list last week displayed a strong undertone, although price changes were not important. Market developments indicated the existence of a considerable short interest and a good desire on the part of many outsiders to invest on the declines. The spirit of general liquidation did not prevail as strongly as heretofore and some of the recent sellers were said to have reinstated their lines on the softer spots. There was some late selling by some of the smaller packers and European interests that were supposed to be long product. The total summer packing showed about 17,200,000 hogs, or approximately 400,000 over the total of the similar period last year. Stocks of meats at the leading centers are about 55,000,000 bu under the total of a year ago. This week's western run of hogs is expected to be liberal.

Week in Live Stock Trade.

A shortage in desirable beef cattle at Chicago, and all other western markets, with a broader demand for beef products from local consumers and eastern shippers resulted in the sharpest gains of the season being made in the price of cattle last week. Buyers filled orders in a semi-frenzied manner and gave prices little consideration whenever suitable stock was available. All grades participated in the upturn, and at the close the average price of beef cattle was placed at 20c higher than a week ago and 35c higher than a year ago. Hogs met with a more energetic demand from eastern shippers, and although values did not finish at the top for the week, the average price showed a gain of 21c over a week ago and stood 65c higher than a year ago. At the close both cattle and hog traders were of the opinion that low prices for the season had been passed and that the future would see all desirable offerings bringing much higher values. Even the buyers admit that there is a shortage in the available supply of fat stock, and that the feeder who has the courage to feed high priced corn will be handsomely recompensed before the end of the winter. Sheep and lambs met with a most urgent inquiry and at the close the average price showed a gain of 25c for sheep and 45c for lambs. Looking into the future traders can see where the sheepmen can make a great deal of money by holding back stock as they feel sure that the late winter months will witness a dearth of desirable fat lambs and sheep and much higher values than can be obtained at present.

IN THE FINANCIAL WORLD

Strong Belief in Prosperity Leads to Stock Advances.

BIG INTERESTS ARE BUYERS.

Money Conditions Remain Easy—Local Bank Shares in Fair Demand.

Advances in the prices of securities since the election indicate how strong is the conviction that business conditions will continue normal and reassuring. The buying of stocks has been by purchasers in touch with banking, transportation, and industrial situation. Those who make the prosperity of the country on the buying and paying side of trade believe in the outlook, and this belief means realization.

There may be some halting due to the tariff, but the upward movement in United States Steel stocks furnishes evidence at this time of the confidence on the part of those most interested that any reduction in finished materials will be offset by reduction in raw materials. The events of the last four months show plainly the harmony that exists between the United States Steel corporation and the representatives of the government, and, summed up, the greatest corporation in the world and the one engaged in an industry which must be affected by tariff changes has no distrust of the future. When it is appreciated that the direction of finance and industry is centered in Wall street, that the expression of belief in one line of industry reflects that of other lines, the layman can look for no better guide as to the business outlook.

Consideration of Tariff.

The republican platform as it deals with tariff revision is accepted as expressing the view of the president elect. While not ambiguous, it is general, and the language, together with the known traditions of the republican party is reassuring. The reelection of Mr. Cannon as speaker of the house is accepted as one of the certain events in the organization of the lower branch of congress. In the matter of changing of tariff schedules Mr. Cannon has a record, and it does not point to radical reduction of import duties.

Money Abundant.

In the money market no changes of moment can be noted. There is an abundance of funds both for business and speculation. The demand of the former is moderate, and speculation has been conservative. There is everything in the situation to indicate continued improvement in general business and the resumption of trade activity among the European nations, whose prosperity has become closely associated with our own.

In the Chicago stock market activity was general. There were no special advances. The securities of the Chicago Railways company continued to be of most interest to speculators and investors.

The elevated railroad stocks and bonds are finding no favor because of enlarged competition by the surface lines. The bonds of each of the three larger companies are at the lowest prices recorded, except for declines due especially to the general business depression.

Local Bank Share Market.

Chicago bank stocks remain in favor. Advances of consequence did not, however, occur last week. Quotations follow:

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—[Special.]—Demand for antimony continues small and the undertone is easier. Prices are 8@8¼c for Cookson's, 7⅝@8c for Hallett's, and 7½@7⅝c for ordinary brands. The London market is firm, with £34 quoted for Hallett's and £33 for ordinary brands.

HUDSON RIVER ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY and SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES

BONDHOLDERS' COMMITTEE

On October 31, 1908, Receivers were appointed for the following companies:

- Hudson River Electric Power Company,
- Hudson River Water Power Company,
- Hudson River Electric Company,
- Saratoga Gas, Electric Light & Power Company,
- Ballston Spa Light & Power Company,
- Empire State Power Company,
- Madison County Gas & Electric Company,
- Hudson River Power Transmission Company.

The interest coupons on the bonds of the larger companies have now been defaulted, and immediate deposit of the bonds of the several companies is, therefore, desirable.

The committee, acting under a bondholders' agreement, dated October 15, 1908, has received on deposit a large number of the bonds of the Hudson River Electric Power Company, which is the parent Company, and as such controls the other companies as subsidiaries. The several companies having been managed as one, the Court appointed the same Receivers for all. It has been likewise suggested, in order to avoid conflict and expense, that the same Committee act for the bondholders of the subsidiary companies under separate, but similar, agreements.

Depositors who do not approve the final plan suggested by the Committee may without expense withdraw their bonds within ten days after written notice that fifty-one per cent. (51%) in face value of the depositors of similar bonds have adopted the plan.

The following have been appointed depositaries to receive the bonds and to issue receipts therefor:

The New England Trust Company, 135 Devonshire St., Boston.
Standard Trust Company, 25 Broad Street, New York.
Fidelity Title & Trust Company, 341 Fourth Ave., Pittsburg.

The reports to the Committee of Messrs. Niles & Niles of New York, Public Accountants, on the books of the several companies, and of Messrs. Stone & Webster of Boston, Engineers on the physical properties of the several companies, taken in connection with the appointment of Receivers for all the companies, make it desirable, if not indeed necessary, that concerted action be immediately taken by the holders of all classes of bonds.

As it is anticipated that the interest on the first mortgage bonds of the Hudson River Power Transmission Company, dated March 15, 1898, maturing April 1, 1928, will be paid, the Committee does not invite the deposit of those bonds.

JAMES R. HOOPER, Chairman,
ROBERT TREAT PAINE, 2d,
EDWIN S. WEBSTER,
JOHN P. REYNOLDS, Jr.,
HORACE E. ANDREWS,
JOHN S. SCULLY.

Counsel: TYLER & YOUNG, Ames Building, Boston.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, women with allowances or incomes] who want to borrow money confidentially with or without security. My average rate, all expenses included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending upon amount loaned and risk assumed. No insurance or other device to swell interest charges.
